Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

The weather picture today is not too bright, with overcast skies and only mild temperatures expected. There is a good chance of rain this afternoon and tonight. The high temperature reading today will be near 78 degrees with the overnight low about 63. Sunrise today was at 6:38 a.m.; sunset will be at 8:07 p.m. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report; high 76; low 48; no precipitation recorded.

Kinzua Dam Report

Pool level 1327.33 feet (desired summer pool level 1328; maximum 1365 feet). Outflow temperature 68 degrees; upper reservoir 69 degrees. Reading at the Warren gauge 3.00 feet.

WARREN COUNTY

Three local youths left this morning for Parris Island, S.C., where they will undergo eight weeks of recruit training under the U.S. Marine Corps "Buddy Plan."

Warren borough police investigated two accidents yesterday afternoon. One accident involved three cars and caused an estimated $870 damage to the vehicles involved. The other accident caused an estimated $400, police said.

"The Madwoman of Chaillo" by Jean Girardoux, premiered Wednesday evening at Plover Playhouse. It contrasts with the heavy drama featured previously. This is the season's fifth and final production.

THE NATION

A group of more than 800 mayors and leaders from business, labor, church and civil rights organizations held a one-day meeting in Washington and called upon Congress to "reorder national priorities" and develop "an emergency work program" to provide jobs in the nation's riot-torn cities. Mayor John V. Lindsay, the keynote speaker at the meeting of the Urban Coalition, called the present situation in the cities "a time of national crisis."

A group of 113 business executives, many of them representing large corporations, have announced their support for a temporary wartime tax increase. However, the size of the rise was not specified. The new business group, formed at the suggestion of Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, also plans to try to enlist the active endorsement of "several thousand" other businessmen across the country to support a tax increase this year.

In the House of Representatives, Southern Democrats joined with a nearly solid Republican minority to cut the Johnson administration's foreign aid authorization bill. In cutting back the total figure to near that passed in the Senate, the House pruned the development loan fund for needy nations, and then cut funds for the Alliance for Progress programs to Latin American nations.

As Senate Subcommittee hearings continued, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said a new cigarette filter introduced by Columbia University last month had been tested and rejected by a major tobacco company as "not worth much."

THE WORLD

In a rare display of Soviet-American diplomatic amity, Washington and Moscow joined forces yesterday in presenting separate but identical drafts of a nuclear nonproliferation treaty to the Disarmament Conference. However, details of any inspection agreements were omitted. An hour after the drafts were presented, William C. Foster, the United States representative, told a news conference that there was a "reasonable hope" that all powers concerned would reach agreement on the entire treaty by the beginning of next year.

SPORTS

Nichols Service Center scored all its runs in the first three innings, then held off a Warren Auto Clinic rally in the late frames last night to win 6-4, capturing the City Softball League championship in two straight games. Page A5.

Both Ed Rickerson and pitcher Jim Patterson slammed bases-loaded home runs in the first inning last night to spark the Warren Beverage Baseball Club to a 13-3 Glenwood League triumph over Koehler Beer. Page A5.

Gary Player, Mason Rudolph and Jim Colbert all carded six-under-par 66 yesterday to take the first round lead in the Westchester Golf Classic, but Arnold Palmer stole the show with one of his patented charges, dropping a birdie and an eagle on the last two holes to come in with 69. Page A6.

Charlie Smith backed Bill Mombquette's five-hitter with two home runs as the New York Yankees blanked the American League-leading Chicago White Sox yesterday, 5-0. Boston and Minnesota closed in on the ChiSox with victories. Page A5.

US and Soviet Submit Draft Disarm Treaty

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
GENEVA — In a rare display of Soviet-American diplomatic amity, Washington and Moscow joined forces yesterday in presenting separate but identical drafts of nuclear nonproliferation treaty to the Disarmament Conference. However, details of any inspection agreements were omitted.
An hour after the drafts were presented, William C. Foster, the United States representative, told a news conference that there was a "reasonable hope" that all powers concerned would reach agreement on the entire treaty by the beginning of next year.

It would bar the five nuclear powers from transferring nuclear weapons or other nuclear-explosive devices to nations that do not have them. It would also prevent the nuclear powers from assisting other nations in the production of nuclear weapons.

When all 17 nations at Geneva reach agreement on the draft treaty, it will be submitted for discussion to the United Nations General Assembly.
France and Communist China, two nuclear powers that are not taking part in the Geneva negotiations, have made it clear that they will not sign the proposed treaty. It is taken for granted, however, that they will not hand over their weapons or knowledge to any country.

In Washington, U.S. officials cautioned that crucial work and knotty deliberations still lie ahead. A fundamental passage in the draft was left blank — the provisions to guard against violations of the proposed treaty — since Moscow and Washington remain at odds on this point.

Officials nevertheless expressed the belief that the preliminary accord would "create an atmosphere" favorable to further steps toward disarmament and the easing of international tensions.

"If we now go forward to completion of a worldwide agreement, we will pass on a great gift to those who follow us," said President Johnson in Washington.
"We shall demonstrate that — despite all his problems, quarrels and distractions — man still retains a capacity to design his fate, rather than be engulfed by it."

WOLF RUN MARINA SEEMS BACK TO NORMAL AFTER WIND DAMAGE

The situation at Wolf Run Marina one week after severe damage was incurred by a violent rainstorm and heavy winds seems to be nearly back to normal. The marina was probably the hardest hit of any area in Warren by the sudden storm which swept through the county last Friday. At that time some 300 feet of floating dock was turned over with three boats underneath it. Most of the sailboats in the bay were upset and wind damage was obvious on nearly all of the boats docked at the site. (Photo by Mahan)

Dr. Lieberman Says Needy Don't Register

Dr. David J. Lieberman, administrator of medical assistance for the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, estimated yesterday that only one-third of those eligible will participate in the state program of medical assistance for the needy this year.

Dr. Lieberman, a former member of the Warren State Hospital staff, calculated that 2.95 million Pennsylvanians would qualify for the program but only 1.05 million would register.

"We have a large number of people who don't know about the program, don't know how to register, or simply will wait until they are sick before asking for help," Lieberman said.
"As a result," he continued, "hospitals throughout the state are losing money because the patient must be registered and certified by the department before the institutions can be reimbursed for services rendered."

House Cuts Bill on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members cut $222 million out of the administration's foreign aid bill yesterday but the Democratic leadership rallied its forces in time to ward off deeper cuts.
On a series of close, non-record votes, Democrats from Southern and border states teamed with Republicans to cut $150 million out of the development loan program and $72 million from the Alliance for Progress.

This cut the measure down near the $2.9 billion level, with further efforts expected to trim the measure to the Senate's $2.6 billion bill.
Administration forces blocked efforts to cut $33 million from the technical assistance program and an additional $70 million from the Alliance for Progress.
They failed, however, in an effort to restore the second year authorization for the Alliance for Progress, eliminated Wednesday by an amendment which held the program's renewal to 12 months.

was in critical condition last night.
These developments were linked by observers here to China's ultimatum to Britain and the subsequent Red Guard assault against the British mission in Peking.
A Chinese foreign ministry note Sunday gave Britain 48 hours to lift a ban on three Communist papers published in Hong Kong and to release a number of journalists arrested on charges ranging from sedition to rioting. Red Guards sacked the British chancery and manhandled several British diplomats after the ultimatum expired.

The first border incident occurred yesterday morning at Lowu, a main crossing point, when a party of journalists was visiting the area. About 40 men and women surged across railway bridge from the Chinese side and began demonstrating in front of a barricade of barbed wire and steel mesh protecting the immigration office and the British soldiers.

Explicitly, an immigration officer opened a gate at the barrier when the demonstrators hammered on it with hoes and poles. The demonstrators entered and confronted a reporter for a local radio station. British Army Gurkhas looked on as he was forced to hand over the tape recorder he was carrying.
Eventually the Gurkhas used tear gas to drive the demonstrators back to the Chinese side. Chinese troops were seen holding back other demonstrators. See Kong, Page A2

Relations between Britain and Red China are badly frayed. Britain is determined to avoid a break in diplomatic relations if possible. But it hopes to withdraw British women and children from China.
Smoke also was seen rising from the chimney of the residence of Shen Ping, the Chinese charge d'affaires, a mile away from the location.

New State Tax Bills Introduced

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
HARRISBURG (AP) — Five new tax bills, including a 1 per cent levy on insurance benefits, were introduced in the House yesterday by Chairman John Hope Anderson, R-York, of the Ways and Means Committee.
The measures are intended to supplement a tax package already on the House floor and to provide Gov. Shafer with revenue to balance his $1.79 billion budget.
The proposed consumer tax on insurance, payable upon maturity of the policy or collection of death benefits, was valued at $3 million.
It was the largest money raiser among the new bills, which also included:
—A 3 per cent tax on trade-ins, such as automobiles and appliances, $15 million.
—A reduction from 50 cents to 10 cents in the sales tax exemption on restaurant food, $14.2 million.
—Extension of the sales tax

Smoke Indicates Sino-British Relations Break

By GRANVILLE WATTS
LONDON (AP) — Black smoke and charred paper billowed yesterday from chimneys at Red China's legation as if documents were being burned, the usual preliminary to a rupture of diplomatic relations. But there was no word of an imminent break.

of $297,706,082 on June 30—are redeemable in silver. When the treasury last month abandoned its practice of selling unlimited amounts of silver at the official price of $1.29, the price of the metal rose to about $1.75 and coin dealers began offering premiums for the certificates.
The premium has ranged from 5 per cent to 33 per cent; yesterday a common price was $1.27 for each silver certificate dollar.
A big buyer of silver certificates is Alan Jay Rosenberg, Inc., who reports that big profits are being made by bank tellers. "Many of them are averaging a $90 profit a day," he says.
Certificates are also coming from private hoardings. "So many of these things have come out of the woodwork they won't be scarce for four lifetimes from now," observed Joel D. Coen of the Coen-Messer Company.
Coen nevertheless made a spectacular profit yesterday morning when a man walked into his store and sold him 100 silver certificate $10 bills, 17 of which were of numismatic value.

When the man left after having received $1,270 for his $1,000 face value bills, Coen exclaimed, "This is a bonanza. These bills catalog at $500 each."
The 17 bills were marked series 1934 B and carried the signatures of Fred M. Vinson, Secretary of the Treasury, and W. A. Julian, Treasurer of the United States. All but one of the bills were in crisp, uncirculated condition.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dollar bills, thrown by hippies from a visitors' gallery, rained down yesterday on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, where millions of dollars in stocks change hands each day, but where cash is never used.
The hippies also tore up several $1 bills and burned a $5 bill during their visit to Wall Street.

Police did not arrive in the area until after they had left and no arrests were made.
"We just want to make a loving gesture to these people," said one of the 15 hippies. "They don't know what money is. They deal in stock certificates."
"I think they're nuts," said a woman tourist from Warren, Ohio.

The hippies were greeted with cheers from the trading floor as they paraded out onto the visitors' balcony.

Top Business Execs OK Tax Surcharge

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — A group of 113 business executives, many of them heads of large corporations, announced their support yesterday for a temporary wartime tax increase of unspecified size.

The business leaders made their views known in a telegram to Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is holding hearings on President Johnson's proposal to increase both individual and corporate taxes by 10 per cent.

The signers of the telegram included the heads of such large and noted businesses as American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Campbell Soup, Chase Manhattan Bank, Ford Motor Company, General Electric, General Motors, International Business Machines, Mobil Oil Company, Pennsylvania Railroad, United States Steel and many others.

The group was organized, it was learned, at the suggestion of secretary of the treasury Henry H. Fowler, who spurred the formation of a similar informal big business lobby, with much the same membership, to support the 1964 tax reduction bill.

The new group plans to seek the active help of "several thousand" other businessmen to work for a tax increase this year, a spokesman said today.

He said the additional businessmen would receive letters next week asking them to speak to their senators and representatives about the tax bill during the two-week congressional recess that begins next week.

Motorist Goes Berserk, Shoots 4 Truck Drivers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A grinning motorist with two pistols wounded four truck drivers yesterday as he raced through metropolitan Miami shooting at random from his car.

Five hours after the first shooting, police arrested a man they identified as Candy Michael Hughes, 23, of Sego Bay, Mich. He was arrested at a motel.

Calvin Joyner, 29, superficially wounded in the back, said the gunman "looked just like a common person except there was a kind of half smile on his face. He looked like he was getting a kick out of it."

Youths Go to Slum to Learn; They Learn

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Four white youngsters living in Cleveland's predominantly Negro Hough area to learn what conditions there are like were beaten up, along with a minister, Wednesday night.

Police said they were attacked by Negro teenagers when a fight broke out after the dedication of the Amelia Boone Tot lot on East 81st Street.

The same crowd attacked a police cruiser, smashing its windows. About 12 cars responded to a call for help from a lone patrolman on duty at the dedication.

The injured youths, all treated and released, and 10 others are living in Hough under a program sponsored by the Lutheran Church in America.

The Rev. Mr. Cook, a Lutheran minister, said the church might cancel the project. His nose was broken when the gang threw him into the street and beat and kicked him.

The others suffered head wounds.

New National Group Urges More City Jobs

WASHINGTON — More than 800 mayors and business, labor, church and civil rights leaders called on Congress yesterday to "reorder national priorities" and develop "an emergency work program" to provide jobs in the nation's riot-torn cities.

Calling itself the Urban Coalition, the group held a one-day meeting here to, in the words of its keynote speaker, Mayor Lindsay of New York, forge a "national coalition of those with a stake in the city and its people."

Lindsay won the day's biggest applause when he stated that the American commitment abroad "should not be allowed to weaken our resolve at home." Later he added:

Henry J. Kaiser Dies In Honolulu at Age 85

HONOLULU (AP) — Henry J. Kaiser, builder of dams, ships, automobiles and hospitals, died yesterday in Honolulu.

The 85-year-old industrialist died of circulatory problems. Death came peacefully in his home while he slept, his office said.

At his side was his wife, Alyce, a nurse Kaiser married after the death of his first wife in 1951, and his son, Edgar Kaiser and his wife.

Kaiser enjoyed good health and an agile mind up to the time of his death. He had vowed to live to 100.

In recent years, his driving pace had slowed somewhat, but he continued to keep watch over his multimillion-dollar industrial empire, now headed by Edgar.

The elder Kaiser helped in the construction of the West's giant dams, Hoover, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta. During World War II, Kaiser's seven shipyards produced $1,500 ships, nearly one-third of the nation's total tonnage.

He turned over the reins of his corporation to Edgar and moved to Hawaii in February 1954, but not to retire.

He immediately set about redoing the Hawaiian Islands.

Kaiser transformed Waikiki slum into a plush hotel resort, built a hospital, organized a radio and television station, and was deeply involved in developing a model community, Hawaii-Kai, at the time of his death.

He even formed a record company to distribute Hawaiian records and started a drive-it-yourself jeep rental service, painting the vehicles pink-his favorite color.

Almost all his projects at one time or another aroused objections and controversy. "I never went into anything that wasn't the object of great controversy," he once said.

Noel B. Dodd Has Sales Post With N.Y. Firm

A former Warren resident and newspaper man, Noel B. Dodd, has been named sales promotion manager of the furniture System Division at Watson Manufacturing Co., Inc., Jamestown, N.Y.

Dodd was formerly a general assignment reporter for the Warren Times Mirror and the Jamestown Post Journal; city editor of the Jamestown Post Journal; city editor of the Jamestown Morning Star; and bureau chief of the Erie, Pa. Times-News.

He will be responsible for directing the dissemination of product and company information to the customers of the Watson Manufacturing Co.

A member of the Chautauqua County Press Club, the Warren Players Club, Jamestown YMCA, and the Marine Corps League, Dodd and his family reside at 125 Crown st., Jamestown, N.Y.

WEEK'S TOLL IS 13, CLOSE TO RECORD

Another U.S. Plane Downed

SAIGON (AP) — Communist ground fire brought down a raiding Air Force F105 over North Vietnam yesterday, pushing the week's toll of destroyed U.S. planes to 13—close to the record. U.S. military headquarters said the Thunderchief was shot down during raids within 30 miles of Red China. The pilot was reported missing.

The North Vietnamese downed 15 planes one week last August, the high for the air war that now is in its 30th month.

Six U.S. jets were lost in raids Monday and six more went down in strikes Wednesday. Of the 22 fliers manning the 13 lost planes, only three were rescued. The others are listed as missing or captured.

Headquarters also said carrier-based Navy planes struck for the second time this week at North Vietnam's Port Walut naval base 30 miles from the Chinese frontier. It was hit Monday for the first time in the Vietnam war.

The base, 61 miles northeast of Haiphong, is North Vietnam's main naval installation and is known to contain a floating drydock and other ship repair facilities. Pilots reported heavy damage to support buildings in Thursday's raids.

Other Navy fliers struck at the Kep Ha airfield 37 miles north-northwest of Haiphong, a secondary airfield smaller than the big MIG base at Kep.

U.S. B52 bombers mounted three raids today against North Vietnamese fortifications and gun positions inside the so-called demilitarized zone which separates North and South Vietnam.

Again the intensified air raids dominated the war scene as they have for more than a month.

Only one significant ground action was reported by U.S.

headquarters—an attack with troops and mortars on U.S. Marine positions just south of the DMZ.

The downing of the latest plane in the North raised to 660 the number of announced U.S. aircraft losses since the bombing of North Vietnam began in February 1965.

While the U.S. Command said ground action was light and scattered, enemy forces launched a five-hour attack early Friday on U.S. Marine elements near Camp Carroll, just south of the DMZ.

The Communists opened up with mortars and launched ground assaults that were met by small arms, automatic weapons, mortars and artillery barrages from the Marines.

Five of the enemy and eight Americans were reported killed, and 22 Marines were wounded.

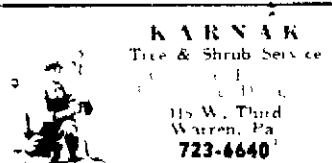

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command also said Marine artillery killed 26 of the enemy in the same general area Wednesday after an air observer spotted forces moving on the ground. There were no U.S. casualties in that action.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, two guerrilla attacks on police stations were reported. Both were seen as part of the Viet Cong campaign to disrupt the Sept. 3 elections.

While the United States lost seven $2-million planes in the last two days, it managed to knock at least two Soviet-built MIGs out of the skies. The U.S., 4th graf 7

Tax

In their telegram to Mills, the business executives said they did not all agree with every detail of President Johnson's tax proposal—for example, with the President's recommendation that the increase be made effective for corporations on July 1, three months earlier than the proposed effective date for individuals.

In supporting a tax increase, the business leaders also asked that Congress and the administration "control and reduce federal expenditures—civilian and military—to the maximum degree that is consistent with the nation's security and economic soundness."

In endorsing the tax increase, the big business executives parted company with one of the nation's largest business groups, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which testified against any tax increase at this time earlier this week. The National Association of Manufacturers and other business groups have supported a tax increase before the committee, although many have voiced objections to specific details.

State

House Republicans crossed the first hurdle to break a four-month impasse Wednesday by giving final legislative approval to a $1.46 billion general appropriations bill.

That measure, which Shafer is expected to sign before the end of the month, accounts for 80 per cent of state spending for the fiscal year and can be met from the existing tax structure.

But some $284 million in aid for industrial development, mass transportation, college scholarships and state-related and private colleges, universities and hospitals still remain for legislative consideration. These measures cannot be enacted without passage of a tax program to pay for them.

Jamestown Man is Injured in Crash

BUSTI, N.Y. — An accident on Sanbury road in the town of Busti last night sent a 32-year-old Jamestown man to WCA Hospital. Injured when he lost control of his car was Gary Yates of 238 McKinley ave., Jamestown, who sustained a broken arm and multiple bruises.

Town of Busti policeman Steven Showers said the Yates car was north bound on Sanbury road when it sent out of control near Lawson road and struck a tree.

Youths Injure Knees

Two 17-year-old youths were injured in a bicycle mishap on Follet Run rd. last evening, according to officials at Warren General Hospital. Hospital officials said Willis Burch of 533 Follet Run rd., and Brenda Lee Schollenberger of 520 Follet Run rd., fell while riding a bicycle, each sustaining knee lacerations. They were treated and released.

Kong

At Man Kam To, scene of an incident two weeks ago in which senior government, army and police officers were held captive for several hours, about 50 men threw stones into British territory and tore away some barricades blocking the border. The demonstrators were finally driven back from the border with gas grenades.

At Lowu and Man Kam To bursts of machine gun fire were heard.

Boro Police Investigate Two Accidents

Warren Borough Police investigated two accidents yesterday afternoon. One involving three cars caused an estimated $870 damage to the vehicles involved, police said.

The accident occurred at 12:50 p.m. when a car driven by Mildred Satterlund, 62 of Valentine Run, Warren, crashed head-on into a truck van operated by John Leo Schott, 51 of R.D. 2, Russell, according to police.

Police reported the Satterlund vehicle was traveling west on Pennsylvania ave. The driver executed a left turn onto Hazel st., police said, and in the process of executing the turn her foot slipped from the brake of the vehicle onto the accelerator. The Satterlund machine then swerved into the left lane of oncoming traffic, striking the van owned by Willis Cleaners and operated by Schott, police said. According to police the crash pushed the Schott vehicle into a legal parking car owned by Shirley J. Fry of R.D. 1, Hadley, Pa.

Police cited the damage to the Satterlund car as $300; damage to the Schott vehicle as $500 and damage to the Fry machine as $70.

Schott was treated at the Medical Center, near the scene of the mishap, for bruises, police said.

Another accident at 3:02 p.m. occurred when a car operated by Ira T. Hamler, 16 of 16 Main st., North Warren, crashed into a car operated by Preston A. Searley, 23 of 900 Jackson road, Warren, police said. According to police, the Hamler machine was traveling north on East st. and didn't see the Searley car traveling west on Seventh st.

The crash caused an estimated damage of $400 to the vehicles involved, police said. No one was reported injured in the mishap.

There were some notable absences—no governors, no members of the federal government, and, with the exception of a small group from Rochester, New York, a very few poor.

Arts Council Wants $139 Million in Grants

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — The National Council on the Arts has recommended that Congress appropriate $139 million to support the most extensive federal arts program in the nation's history.

The recommendations include the development of about 50 permanent professional theater companies that would tour the country; and the creation of small musical groups—quartets, quintets and 20-piece orchestras "in as many cities as possible."

The council also proposed experimental projects in television programming that would result in 725 half-hour shows; and aid to symphony orchestras, major dance companies, museums, composers, playwrights, novelists, poets, painters and sculptors.

The program calls for the following grants:
Theater—$30 million; music—$33 million; radio, television and motion pictures—$22 million; visual arts—$20 million; dance—$14.5 million; architecture and design—$10 million; state arts groups—$5.5 million. Congress has so far appropriated $17.5 million for the council for a three-year period ending next June.

3-Time Losers Total 25 in Pa.

HARRISBURG (AP) — A total of 267,948 convictions for traffic violations were recorded under the state's point system of driver suspensions in the first year of the program, Traffic Safety Commissioner Harry H. Brainerd reported yesterday.

Brainerd said 59,654 motorists accumulated six or more points and were required to attend a driver improvement school.

Mafia Said Behind Theft of $400,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-five persons were accused yesterday in the year-old theft from Kennedy Airport of $407,000 in American Express travelers checks — a job the government said was underwritten with murder and money by the Cosa Nostra.

The 25 were named in a sealed indictment handed up Wednesday by a federal grand jury, and opened Thursday.

Most of the defendants previously had been arrested. However, five of them were picked up Thursday on bench warrants — including Vincent "Jimmy" Potenza, 40, described as a Cosa Nostra "button man," a private in gangland ranks who carries out assignments, enforces orders and exacts reprisals. He was released in $5,000 bail to await arraignment.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said the stolen checks have turned up in every major city in the United States, and in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands as well. Only $28,000 worth ever were recovered uncashed.

Behind the plot, Morgenthau said, were the Cosa Nostra families of Joseph Colombo and the late Thomas "Three Finger Brown" Luchese. Potenza was identified as a Luchese underling, and another of the defendants, Maurice Savino, 34, was described as a button man for the Colombo mob. Underworld informers played a role in the FBI's cracking of the case. The G-men made their first arrest 10 days after the travelers checks disappeared from Kennedy Airport, where they were awaiting shipment to Florida banks.

New State Supt. Of Instruction Assumes Office

By WILLIAM E. DEIBLER HARRISBURG (AP) — Dr. David H. Kurtzman, who enrolled in a Philadelphia high school 46 years ago as a 19-year-old sophomore, is Pennsylvania's new superintendent of public instruction.

Kurtzman, 63, was sworn in to the $30,000-a-year cabinet post yesterday by Craig Truax, secretary of the commonwealth. The cabinet job is Kurtzman's second. He was secretary of administration for the late Democratic Gov. David Lawrence from 1960-63.

Kurtzman has been acting chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh since January, 1966. Before that, he was vice-chancellor in charge of finance, taking that post in July of 1965.

Born in the Ukraine on Jan. 11, 1904, the son of a Jewish grocer, Kurtzman emigrated to Philadelphia in 1921. His family earlier had fled Russia to escape from the programs that swept that nation before the revolution.

Kurtzman succeeds Dr. J. Ralph Rackley, who resigned as superintendent last June 1 to return to an administrative job at the Pennsylvania State University.

New Filter Said Tested And Rejected

By WALTER R. MEARS WASHINGTON (AP) — Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, said yesterday the highly publicized cigarette filter developed by Robert L. Strickman will not reach tobacco counters without extensive testing and reevaluation—a process which could take years.

Kirk said the university is confident the filter effectively cuts tars and nicotine in cigarette smoke. But Sen. Thurston E. Morton, R-Ky., said a Strickman filter already has been tested and rejected by a Louisville, Ky., tobacco company.

In Louisville, the Brown & Williamson president, Edwin P. Finch, said Strickman visited the company last year, and the firm ran tests on a filter he provided.

He said the filter was not satisfactory.

"We do not know whether the present Strickman filter is the same as the one we tested," Finch said. He added the company has arranged with Strickman to test his present filter.

Stronger Laws On Firearms Urged by RFK

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., urged the City of New York Council yesterday to approve legislation that would control the sale of rifles and shotguns, which he termed "the tools of the urban rioter, the machinery of senseless killing."

In addition to advocating local gun laws, Kennedy urged stronger state and federal statutes governing the sale and possession of firearms. He also proposed a law that would give the mayor power to suspend the sale of firearms or ammunition during periods of emergency.

Under questioning, the senator said that the National Rifle Association "will have to take the responsibility for the deaths of many Americans."

No Mutual Agreement

Conservationist Ernie Swift came up with some pretty strong talk in a recent article he did for Conservation News, the publication put out by the National Wildlife Federation.

To quote: "Books of this type (Birds in Our Lives) often have a common fault, a thread of apologetic justification running through them for the position taken. Too many conservationists feel duty-bound to relate these justifications to the needs and desires of MAN and his particular interests.

"Within the judicial system created by MAN, no one is allowed to sit in judgment of his own case or be one of his own jurors. Then how can MAN determine his own importance in areas affecting the entire universe?

"His importance, if such it is, is more reflection of his ability to destroy or create. Some resources MAN has ruthlessly destroyed in an attempt to improve his material lot; refusing to admit he is only a living unit in the life cycle of many organisms. MAN as yet lacks the ultimate intellect to assume any Jehovah attitude that he alone can decide what should be destroyed and what should be saved. This is the crux of all controversies regarding resources, a lack of knowledge and too much stress on material things. There is not mutual agreement and there never will be.

"If wildlife interferes with agriculture or forestry, the quick and obvious solution is to reduce or destroy the wild populations. Reduction by hunting of the larger species is often the correct answer. If insects or rodents interfere with crops, poisons are broadcast. Birds and rodents both feed on insects and crops, but the crop damage is usually more striking than any reduction made of insects.

"Poisons can be accumulative and directly or indirectly harm wild species not considered pests, can impregnate the soil and adversely affect people and watercourses; poisons are supposed to keep us from the brink of famine. The food-garbage hauled from our metropolitan centers each day belies this assertion. Spreading poisons is a direct and positive action taken for the benefit of limited interests.

"But pursuing this idea that damage to resources is the price of progress: Only a decade ago it was argued that water pollution was one price we must pay for a life of good living and luxuries. Now we are discovering that water pollution is becoming so progressively detrimental as to endanger some types of manufacturing, commercial fishing, tourist recreation and human life. Part of this pollution relates to the release of chemicals by industries creating the good life and poisons spread on the land to save us—supposedly—from starvation.

"If the good life is to continue, the sources of pollution must be overcome. If MAN cannot control the products of his genius, the laws of diminishing returns will set in."

So says Ernie Swift.

But it has always been human nature, and we suppose it always will be, to ignore even the most sensible warnings if those warnings threaten what we consider to be our way of life. Only the primitive cultures were concerned with preserving "the good life" for future generations. Civilized man has never considered anything but his own pleasures and comforts.

What About Herbert?

HARRISBURG — Reporter's Notebook:

WHAT ABOUT HERBERT? — When Governor Shafer hustled before a joint session of the Legislature this week to urge speedy action on Pennsylvania's lagging budget and tax front, noticeably missing from his 17-minute action plea was any touch of acrimonious partisanship, or more specifically any attempt at head-thumping of opposition legislative Democrats.

In fact so soothing was the message from his gubernatorial lips, insofar as partisanship reflection might be concerned, that the question might well have been asked at the time as to whether it was a Democratic or Republican Governor standing in the Speaker's podium in the House of Representatives!

About the closest he came to shredding any partisan hides developed when he said: "While unfortunately some of our state-ments have not been free of partisan acrimony in the heat of debate, this wedge has not divided us on the major issues, except for the budget-revenue stalemate."

There were those who fully expected His Excellency to take the occasion to singe the black thatch atop the pate of House Democratic Leader Herbert Fineman, in view of some of his lambastings of Mr. Fineman in the past for rallying Democratic troops so effectively to stop the Shafer budget-and-tax charge in its tracks.

The name of Herbert Fineman however never remotely crossed the Governor's lips nor was there even any indirect mention of him by title—formal or otherwise. What about Herbert? He could have been piqued by this "oversight" which may have prompted his perhaps irritated reference to Mr. Shafer's plea as "ill-timed and ill-advised!"

(Incidentally, whatever happened to that first year "honeymoon" usually accorded Pennsylvania's chief executives their first year in office?)

decision to run as a delegate to the upcoming Constitutional Convention, from Lackawanna County, recalling his insistence his last few months in office that he would never again run for public office.

Most people considered this to mean he would not again stand for "election" to any office (which did not rule out "appointment" to some public post, incidentally). Thus when he announced his decision to run as a delegate for the Constitutional Convention there was some (perhaps natural) eyebrow-raising.

However the question arises as to whether the convention post actually can be considered an elective "public office" post. Usually elective "public office" positions are regarded as those embracing such areas as the governorship, mayor, keeper of the village-green, senator (?), etc. Under such circumstances it is not felt Mr. Scranton "violated" his no-run-for-public-office pledge made in the heat of retiring from his former gubernatorial post.

USING THEIR HEADS — Back in April (some two weeks after April Fool's Day) a pack of seven lawmakers in the House of Representatives introduced a rather innocuous bill some 11 lines in length but it made more sense than most of the multi-page bills that filter into the legislative hopper each week.

In a nutshell, the bill would simply require that the "Department of Property and Supplies" shall place descriptive name signs at the doorways of the Capitol buildings in Harrisburg to provide easy identification by all who enter them.

Letter to The Editor

Warren, Pa.
22 August 1967

To the Editor,
This is in answer to a letter published in the TMO on Monday, Aug. 21, '67. A Non-Puritan condemns profanity in culture—in drama, but, perhaps that puritan has never contributed to bringing real "culture" to a town like Warren. The puritan claims there is only a small fraction of us who use profane language at all. But he (or she) uses it in his letter to the editor. The puritan claims that "Virginia Woolf" portrayed the "cheapest, sorriest strata of human life." In that statement, the puritan disclaims and discredits any and every college and university instructor in the United States. Obviously, the puritan has never been to college. And therefore has no idea what university life is or can be.

Our friend the puritan says he hated to see a junior high student sitting in front of him (or her) having to listen to the terrible cursing and swearing which emanated from the stage. My friend the puritan, how narrow minded you are!

First, from the moral standpoint, that junior high student has probably heard worse things than those unmentionables uttered on stage that night at Plowright... and the important thing, that student probably still doesn't know what they mean. If the student did know the meaning of the words, he or she probably realized that these things, these words, this swearing REALLY DOES occur in the world; people really do say "dirty" words in normal conversation. Not everyone does, but there people, good people, who swear and mean well. Perhaps these kids will be some-world outside the protective environment of their homes before they leave. And that, my puritan friend, is a Godsend!

Second, everyone has an opinion of a particular dramatic work. Even a bestselling book has readers who are not satisfied with the author's interpretation. Both "Virginia Woolf" and "Streetcar Named Desire" are famous and long running dramatic works. Both were done at this Summer Theater by excellent casts and casts who worked hard and long hours for no pay. They act and work on the backstage because they love Theatre. The authors of the plays which were done on this stage were close to genius in their works and modern culture in the United States recognized these playwrights appropriately. I really do not believe that Stanley in "Streetcar..." or Martha in "Virginia Woolf" would have been the same characters, (hard, tough and yet sensitive), without that extra little trait of swearing in normal conversation.

Third and finally, Puritan—you know a man can be God-fearing and still swear like a sergeant. A man can go to church and respect God's will and still drink like a fish. Perhaps that's one of the reasons we all need to fear God—I mean not being perfect.

Sincerely,
Tim Larson

Wild And Scenic Rivers

The recent passage by the Senate of the "Wild and Scenic Rivers Act" by an 84 to 0 vote indicates the popularity among legislators of the development of a National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

The true purpose of the bill is to "balance the national policy of dam building with a policy of preserving selected rivers or sections thereof that possess unique conservation, scenic, fish, wildlife, and outdoor recreation values."

An interesting feature of the bill is that it prohibits the Federal Power Commission from licensing the construction of dams on a wild or scenic river unless Congress specifically authorizes the construction.

The bill would establish a National Wild and Scenic Rivers system, to be composed of streams designated either as "national wild river areas" or as "national scenic river areas."

To meet the requirements of a WILD RIVER the stream and adjacent lands must be "located in a sparsely populated, natural, and rugged environment where the river is free flowing and unpolluted, or where the river should be restored to such condition, in order to promote sound water conservation, and promote the public use and enjoyment of the scenic, fish, wildlife, and outdoor recreation values."

For a SCENIC RIVER the requirements are less strict. The stream must be one "that is unpolluted and should be left in its pastoral or scenic attractiveness, or that should be restored to such condition, in order to protect, develop, and make accessible its significant national outdoor recreational resources for public use and enjoyment."

Only seven streams, or segments thereof, are to be designated as "national wild river areas" if the bill becomes law. As can be expected, they are located chiefly in the far west. They are: the Middle Fork of the Salmon in Idaho; the Rogue and Illinois in Oregon; the Rio Grande in New Mexico, and a portion of this famous river in Texas; the St. Croix in Minnesota and Wisconsin; and the Wolf in Wisconsin. Some of these same rivers have segments designated as scenic rivers.

Sections of five streams are to be designated as "national scenic river areas." These include sections of the St. Croix in Wisconsin and Minnesota; the Eleven Point in Missouri and Arkansas; the Rogue in Oregon; the Illinois in Oregon; and the Namekagon in Wisconsin.

A great many more rivers may be considered for addition to the "national scenic river areas" System. The bill provides that the Secretaries of the Department of Agriculture and the Interior consult with State officials and submit, within five years, their recommendations to the President on whether or not other streams should be added to the System. The President then shall submit his recommendations for legislation.

Of interest to residents of Northwestern Pennsylvania is the fact that portions of the Allegheny and Clarion Rivers have been listed for possible consideration in the SCENIC RIVER category. Those sections on the Allegheny listed include "the segment from the Allegheny Reservoir to Tionesta" and the segment "from Franklin to East Brady." That portion listed for the Clarion River includes "the segment from where it enters the Allegheny to Ridgway."

I am not familiar with the condition of the shoreline from Franklin to East Brady on the Allegheny River, but if it is anything like what I have seen between the Allegheny Reservoir and Tionesta, a lot of face lifting will be necessary if these two sections are to be seriously considered as additions to the "national scenic river areas" System. I have no quarrel with the natural setting. It is very beautiful. It is what man has done to portions of it that has provided the "fly in the ointment."

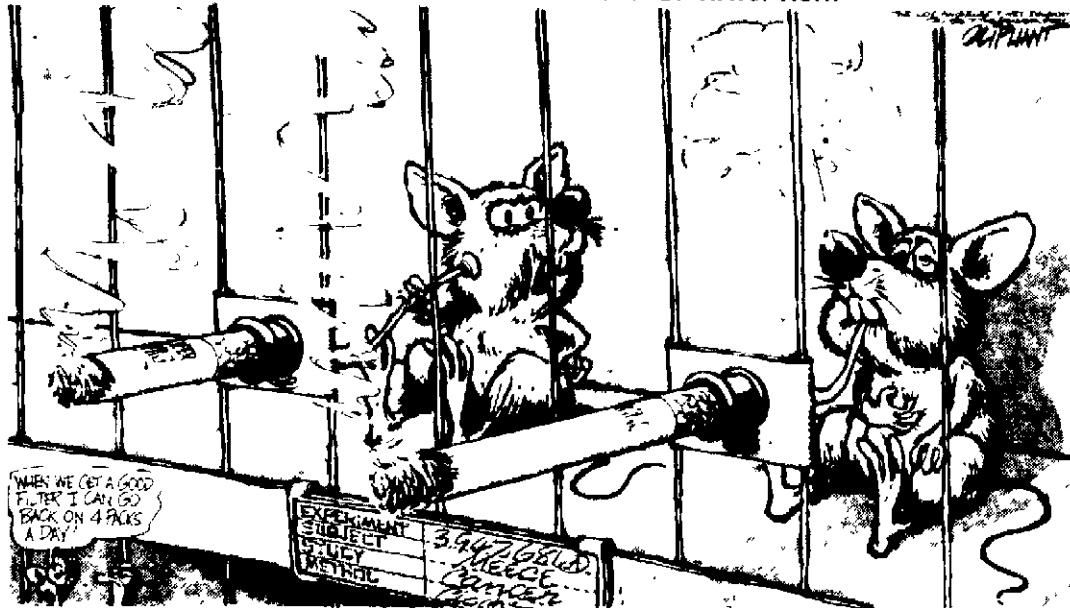

There are too many shacks, old buses converted into hunting and fishing camps, and other dilapidated buildings within sight of the water's edge that would repel canoeists and outdoor motor enthusiasts who appreciate true scenic values.

If the "Wild and Scenic Rivers Act" should become law, and the people in this area would like to see that section of the historic Allegheny River between the Reservoir and Tionesta stand some chance of being included as an addition to the Scenic Rivers System, they have less than five years in which to clean up the shore line.

City Projects Lose Out

WASHINGTON—There has been a lot of oratory lately about whether the taxpayers are spending too much or too little to help the big cities. The House made its attitude clear by refusing to spend $40 million over three years to exterminate rats and the diseases they spread.

In this connection, it is worth examining what Congress has appropriated to prevent farm diseases which can also be passed on to the people. These are beneficial programs which should be continued but should also be balanced by equal aid for the cities.

Because the old men who run Congress come chiefly from rural areas, however, the battle against farm diseases gets appropriations and the proposals to fight city diseases do not. Most of the powerful committee chairmen come from rural towns and do not understand big-city needs. Of the 16 Senate committees, 13 are headed by Senators from small towns. The Agriculture Committee, which takes a benevolent attitude toward rural problems, has 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana, La., as its chairman. The Public Welfare Committee, which is supposed to concern itself with city problems, is headed by 73-year-old Sen. Lister Hill of Montgomery, Ala.

Of the 20 House chairmen, 16 come from small towns. The Agriculture Committee is chaired by 68-year-old Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, Tex., and the Public Welfare Committee is run by 66-year-old Rep. Carl Perkins of Hudson, Ky.

The money must come from the Senate Appropriations Committee, whose chairman is 90-year-old Sen. Carl Hayden of Phoenix, Ariz., and the House Appropriations Committee, which is headed by 68-year-old Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, Tex.

Here's how these aging, rural-minded leaders are spending the taxpayers' money to protect their own constituencies:

BANG'S DISEASE, which causes abortion in cows and hogs, can be passed on to people as undulant fever. The federal government pays a farmer up to $50 bonus to butcher a cow if it contracts Bang's disease. He also collects the regular market price for the meat. In most states, cattle herds must be tested each year; the cows are either certified as Bang-free or they are slaughtered. The program costs the taxpayers $21.5 million a year, plus another $250,000 for research. This is important to the nation's health but no more important, say, than an annual inspection program to certify apartment houses as rat-free.

WEED CONTROL costs the taxpayers $26.9 million doled out to the states, state universities and research stations, another $2.7 million spent for experimentation. Still another $3.2 million goes to eliminate witchweed, a parasitic growth that destroys corn crops in some Southern states. Water hyacinth control costs the taxpayers an additional $6.7 million

Repetitive TV Commercials

Nothing can set teeth on edge like repetitive television commercials. They have become cute, smug, and some even have a story line. The desire to sell a product is not only praiseworthy, it is important to the overall economy of the country. Still, when the viewer has seen the same clever jingle four or five times, he is beset by a pavlovian conditioned reflex which alienates him.

Some people learn to turn their minds off when the commentator murmurs: "And now, a word... America needs what America has to sell, but the saleslatch assaults the eyes and ears with shallow clichés. "Now" is an abused word. "Now, for the first time..." The word "New" gets rude treatment. An old detergent is stamped as "New." In one minute, the name of the item is repeated six or seven times. Our ears are hit with it as though, like little children, we will remember better if admonished sufficiently not to forget.

A few weeks ago, James Jordan, vice president of Barton, Burton, Durstine and Osborn wrote an article called "Commercials to Make a Profit By." It was published in the New York Times. He says that first the commercial must persuade the viewer to make a decision, "usually what we call a sound decision," for one brand of soap or soap against "an enemy brand."

"And the best way to move the consumer toward that kind of decision," says Mr. Jordan, "is to convince her that your brand somehow solves a problem for her." One of the biggest campaigns now on T.V. concerns a detergent which can be put in a mixer, and it will "whip." That may solve the problem of cleaning the mixer, but what will it do for the dishes? In truth, detergents have become more important in relation to their effect on a lady's hands than on the things they are reputed to clean.

A relatively small percentage of the population buys a relatively large amount of any product. Mr. Jordan says. He points out that 15 per cent of the adults consume 80 per cent of the beer. "Address yourself solely to the guys who like beer enough to put away four or five every evening. That just has to be smarter than talking to ladies who may make a six-pack last for six months."

Agreed. Jordan says that, until a few years ago, all the beer commercials featured ladies carrying trays of tall pitchers, glasses, or housewives pouring at beach parties. The wrong people. Then Schaefer came along with "The one beer to have when you're having more than one." Jordan says that Schaefer has led the competition ever since. They were taking dead aim on the man of the house.

Once you present your product to the right people, Jordan says, "you still have to make the sale." Your best chance is to solve his problem, locate it, isolate it, synthesize it and obliterate it with sharp punchy words. Take bananas. Most importers ship them green and naked on the stem.

Many animals, like humans, grow gray with the years. This is true of cats and dogs. It is true also of mice and rats and they are often chosen by scientists for experimental specimens

Not Chiquita Bananas. They boxed them. Why? Because naked bananas are prone to inner bruises, unseen until peeled. Not Chiquita. This led to women asking for bananas by brand name. Still, even after you solve a problem for purchasers, you have the additional riddle of finding a way of saying it visually and orally in one minute or less.

"This is hard to do," says Jordan. "The average consumer is exposed to 1,500 advertising messages a day—T.V., radio, magazines, newspapers, billboards, store displays." Of these, he remembers 15. One percent. "He may be looking, but he doesn't see," Jordan writes. "He may be listening, but he doesn't hear."

He has built a boredom barrier around his head. An automatic tuneout. "How do you break through?" There is, Mr. Jordan says, dozens of techniques. Breakthroughs have been scored by the Ajax White Knight, the Tareyton black eye, the Dodge Rebellon girl, and Bert Lahr for Lay's Potato Chips. Clair-o's question: "Is it true blondes have more fun?" cracked the boredom barrier. Gl-l-e-tte's Look Sharp March almost became the national anthem. The Jolly Green Giant is on everyone's conscious side.

"O.K.," says Jordan. "You talk to the right people. You solve the right problem. You make sure the message gets through. Anything else? Yes. Make sure the message registers in your name." He snidely asks who remembers the name of the washer that was ten feet tall? And what medication was it that prompted a woman to ask: "Would you believe it? I have a cold."

Obviously, they didn't get through. Jordan. The one which got through to me is that when I'm out of... I'm out of beer....

SYLVIA PORTER

Will You Get Your $'s Worth?

Will you, the young American worker who is now contributing the maximum Social Security tax, get back your money's worth in Social Security benefits when you retire?

Or, as has been charged repeatedly in the past few months, will you lose on the deal by paying a bigger tax total than your expected future benefits?

Take, for instance, a young worker who began working last year at age 21. Assume he has been paying and will continue to pay, the maximum Social Security tax until he retires at age 65 in the year 2010. Under today's law, the total value of this worker's contributions over his working lifetime, including interest on the contributions accumulating at the rate of 3 1/2 per cent, would amount to $31,692. Yet the total "value" of his retirement benefits over his expected lifetime would be only $19,761—$11,931 less than the total value of his contributions.

This worker, who is typical of millions now pouring into the labor force is on the surface getting an a b o m i n a b l e deal in Social Security.

But consider the fact that in addition to his retirement benefits, he will be protected against disability throughout all but five of his 44 working years. Consider also that his wife and children will be eligible for survivors' benefits in the event of his death before he retires. The value of this additional protection is estimated by chief Social Security actuary Robert J. Myers at many thousands of dollars.

Moreover, today, a man retiring at age 65 has an 81 per cent chance of having a wife and the total value of a retired worker and wife's combined benefits, including widow's benefits, is figured at $34,023. This is in addition to disability benefits and to benefits payable to survivors if the breadwinner dies before 65.

If this worker became totally disabled sometime in the next few years, he would get back many times the amount of his Social Security tax contributions in disability benefits alone. If this worker died at a young age, leaving a widow and several young children, his survivors might get as much as $30,000 to $40,000 in survivors' benefits.

On average, says Myers, today's young worker will contribute 80-85 per cent of the total value of his benefit protection, counting the interest that would accumulate on his contributions. The average young worker just entering the labor force could not possibly buy, for his Social Security contributions, a private annuity that would pay as much as his expected Social Security benefits.

Myers concedes that the higher income worker who begins working in 1973 or later, when maximum Social Security contribution rates under present law take effect, will "no more than just about pay for the value of his protection." But this, he adds, does not take into account the certainty that Social Security benefits will continue to be increased in the years ahead.

Far different is the situation of the elderly worker who reached retirement age at the beginning of 1967 and who had paid maximum Social Security taxes since they were first deducted from his paycheck in January 1937. He is way ahead. He has contributed a total of $3,355, including interest, his benefits will amount to many times this.

In sum, you, the young American worker, will get at least your money's worth in protection before and after you retire.

You, the older worker who is due to retire soon, will get a lot more than your money's worth. And you, the employer, are by your contributions, helping to make it possible for millions of older Americans to avoid dependency and destitution, and you are thereby guaranteeing a huge and stable market for your production of goods and services.

FAST FINISH DIMS 66'S BY PLAYER, RUDOLPH AND COLBERT

Trio Shares Lead at Westchester Tourney, But Arnie Steals Show

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Gary Player, Mason Rudolph and a little-known young Kansan, Jim Colbert, shot into the lead with six-under-par 66s, but the hall-of-fame trio was reserved for the great birdie-eagle finish of Arnold Palmer yesterday in the first round of the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

When Palmer nailed a three-wood shot to the green on the 518-yard, par-15th and sank a 12-foot putt for a 69, the gallery blew off the roof at night, 6,373-yard Westchester Country Club course.

The gallery stood 20 deep as a cordon of armed policemen escorted the smiling Palmer to the interview room, and typical comments came from Arnie's Army.

"What a clutch player," said one man who had watched his fairway idol rally from a double-bogey on the opening hole.

"He's in the ball game now," said another.

"You'd think it was Frank Sinatra or President Johnson," one woman said cryptically as she watched the gallery battle for a sight of the game's all-time leading money winner.

The pace setting trio in this richest of all golf tournaments had a single stroke edge over U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, left-handed Bob Charles of New Zealand and young Don Schlee, former West Point enlisted man, tied at 67. Bracketed at 68—two strokes off the pace—were 55-year-old Sam Snead, winner of more than 100 tournaments; steady Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., extending his string of holes without a bogey to 84; club pro Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., sensation of the U.S. Open championship in June and Dave Hill of Evergreen, Colo.

Palmer and British Open champion Roberto De Vicenzo were in a cluster bunched at 69. Almost half the field of 154 was par or better.

The field was reduced a day ahead of time by an unusual set of accidents and casualties.

Former PGA champion Bobby Nichols, who fired a 66 in the pro-AM Wednesday, turned up with a pinched nerve in his left shoulder and had to withdraw after shooting a 43 for the first nine holes.

Ex-U.S. open champion Dick Mayer and Ron Weber of West Orange, N.J., were victims of young golf ball thieves. Both were guilty of illegal drops at the 15th hole after spectators had made off with balls and were disqualified. They could have saved themselves by returning to the tee and playing as if it was a lost ball situation.

Jacly Cupit failed to start because of a back injury. Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla., failed to sign his scorecard.

Palmer, who has won more than $138,000 so far this year and is in position to break the season winning mark by taking the $30,000 first prize, disappointed his fans when he took a double bogey on the 190-yard, par 3 first hole, taking two shots to get out of the rough.

He got two more bogeys before he came to life with one of his once typical surges by sinking a six-foot putt for a birdie at the 17th and then getting the eagle at the 18th. He finished a 3-3-3, par, birdie, eagle.

Player knocked in six birdies in the space of eight holes starting at No. 5—without a birdie putt of more than six feet—and didn't have a bogey.

"I was awfully homesick when I got up early this morning and I thought I would be awful," the little internationalist from South Africa said. "But I never hit my irons better."

Colbert, 26, who went to Kansas State on a football scholarship, also didn't have a bogey as he had six birdies, two putts of 25 feet.

"I feel uncomfortable in this spot," the young pro of two years said, recalling that his name is 54th on the tour's money list.

Rudolph, the bespectacled Tennesseean who has never won a major crown although he is always a threat, had five birdies, an eagle and a bogey. His eagle came at the 557-yard fifth where he reached the green with two big wallops and got down from 35 feet.

"When I added it up, I thought I ought to play a couple more holes," he said. "I'm not used to stopping at 66."

Meeting Tuesday For Gal Bowlers

The Warren Women's Bowling Association will hold an open meeting for all bowlers on Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the American Legion. All league officers, including those from Sheffield and Youngsville, are urged to be present along with all interested Association members. League supplies will be available at the meeting from Vi Sterling.

Greeted Wildly by Fans, A's Press Investigation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics, deeply embroiled in a dispute with their owner, returned home yesterday voicing determination to continue pressing for a full investigation by William D. Eckert, Commissioner of Baseball.

More than a thousand wildly screaming fans greeted the A's at Municipal Airport carrying signs backing the team and criticizing Owner Charles O. Finley.

Pitcher Jack Aker, the team's player representative, told newsmen they had not yet heard a reply from the commissioner on the players' request for a BoSox Land Harrelson?

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Kansas City radio station reported yesterday that unnamed sources in the Kansas City Athletics said former A's player Ken Harrelson will sign a contract with the Boston Red Sox.

Mike White, news director of KUDL, said Harrelson, who was given his release after publicly criticizing Kansas City A's owner Charles O. Finley, left here by plane for Boston. White said he obtained Harrelson's destination from an airline official.

Harrelson was at the airport when the A's returned home yesterday. He told newsmen that he was leaving to join an unnamed American League club.

In Boston, the Red Sox publicity office said Harrelson has not signed with the team. The Red Sox are to play a twin-night doubleheader tomorrow in Chicago.

BILLS HOST EAGLES TONIGHT

Three Inter-League Pro Clashes Slated

American Football League teams will be seeking to follow the leader when they hook up in three more games with National Football League clubs that highlight the weekend's 10-game, pre-season program.

The count stands at 5-3 for the NFL halfway through the inter-league competition following the smashing 66-24 victory recorded Wednesday night by AFL champion Kansas City over the Chicago Bears.

The Buffalo Bills will get the first chance to close the gap further when they meet the Philadelphia Eagles at home tonight. Washington of the NFL is at Boston of the AFL tomorrow afternoon and Los Angeles of the older circuit is at San Diego of the AFL on Sunday afternoon.

In games matching only National League clubs, Cleveland is at Atlanta tonight, Baltimore is at Detroit, New Orleans faces San Francisco at Portland, Ore., and Pittsburgh takes on the St. Louis Cards at Nashville, Tenn., tomorrow night while Minnesota meets the New York Giants at New Haven, Conn., Sunday afternoon.

In AFL tilts, Houston plays the New York Jets at Charlotte, N.C., tomorrow night and Denver faces Oakland at North Platte, Neb., Sunday afternoon.

The AFL's chances of reducing the NFL's lead in the Buffalo game seem to be dim. The Bills are winless and have dropped three straight pre-season games for the first time in six years.

Philadelphia, on the other hand, comes off an impressive 34-19 victory over New York's AFL entry during which the Eagles' quarterback Norm Snead passed for 176 yards and two touchdowns. Philadelphia has a 2-1 record, both triumphs over teams from the other circuit.

Three Inter-League Pro Clashes Slated

Washington takes a 2-0 mark into its game against the Patriots, 1-2. The Redskins, led by new quarterback Jim Nantz, passed plus the power running of Joe Don Looney and A. D. Whitfield, walloped the Giants 31-13 last week. One of Boston's two losses was by a 33-3 count to the Baltimore Colts.

Los Angeles will also take a perfect record into its game at San Diego. The Rams have won three, including last week's 24-17 triumph over Cleveland. Les Josephson has been the Rams' rushing leader with 168 yards for a 4.6 average.

The Chargers, 1-2, dropped a 38-17 decision to Detroit last weekend in their first inter-league game.

Lt. Johnson Might QB On Weekend

ST. LOUIS (AP) — William Bidwell, part owner of the St. Louis football Cardinals said yesterday he did not know if quarterback Charley Johnson would be able to play for the Cardinals this season.

Bidwell said he wasn't aware of a report in yesterday's Washington Star that Johnson was found physically unacceptable to lead troops into combat.

The newspaper said that because of the results of Johnson's induction physical at Ft. Sill, Okla., Johnson would be transferred to the National Space Administration's Space Research Agency in Virginia.

However, an Army spokesman at Ft. Sill denied yesterday that Johnson was found physically unfit to lead troops into combat.

"As far as the Army is concerned," the spokesman said, "Johnson is a first lieutenant called up to go to work."

Johnson said that even if he were able to play for the Cardinals, he would still have a problem with timing, which is vital to a quarterback.

"Charlie will probably get in touch with Coach Winner," (Cardinal Coach Charley Winner) Bidwell said. "But the only thing I know right now is that Johnson will be at Ft. Sill for nine weeks. We don't know what will be happening after that."

The Washington Star said Johnson would remain at Ft. Sill until Nov. 1, but the paper said it was believed he would be able to play in the Cardinals' weekend games.

Permits Slated For Hunting At Pymatuning

Application blanks for hunting on the Pymatuning waterfowl area were issued this week by the Pennsylvania Game Commission. They are to be issued to interested parties after September 1.

Applications for reservations must be postmarked no later than October 1.

Selections will be made by random drawing on Wednesday, October 4.

An individual may hunt two days per season as a reservation holder, or the guest of a reservation holder, or by applying an hour or so before sunrise each morning for unclaimed reservations.

A limited number of applications will be available at the Times-Mirror and Observer office and can be had by calling there after September 1.

Three Projects Are Scheduled By Cornplanter

The Cornplanter Rod and Gun Club held its regular monthly meeting on Monday with 17 members present.

After routine business three new events were discussed. The first will be open trap shooting on August 27. Competition will open at 12:00 noon, and all trap shooters are welcome. The second event will be a Family Day for members, families and guests on September 2. This will be a twelve picnic dinner at seven o'clock.

All members are asked to contact Harold Kiser, Jr., at 563-9692 or Albert Hoffman at 723-3265. The third event will be an outdoor breakfast and 30 caliber shoot on the club's 30 Cal. Range on Six Mile Run on September 10th. All club shooters will meet at the Glade Bridge at 8:00 a.m.

Ted Young, Warren County Council representative for Cornplanter Gun Club, and members discussed Warren County Council's Field Day which will be held at the Kalbts grounds on September 17th. Members voted to have a concession at the event. Concession and the ticket committee will be headed by Young.

Ex-Dragon Grid Teams Plan 50-Year Reunion

A 50-year reunion of former Warren High School football players has been scheduled for the Dragons' first home game of the season, against Titusville on Saturday, September 23. Men who played on the Warren squads in the 1915, 1916 and 1917 seasons are urged to attend the reunion.

The 1917 team was undefeated and untied, scoring 330 points and allowing the opposition only 22 in posting a 9-0 record.

After the game, the group will meet at Chairman Lloyd Smith's home at 415 Conewango Avenue for a picnic dinner, which will be catered by Marie Knapp Luthold. The meal will be turkey with all the fixings.

A number of ex-players have already indicated their intentions of being here for the event and a special section of the grandstand will be reserved for the group. Recognition of the players during halftime activities is also being planned.

Layfield Memorial At Stateline Track

BUSTI, N. Y. — The rain-delayed 50-lap Dean Layfield Memorial Race will be the feature event tomorrow evening at Stateline Speedway as racing resumes at the Southwestern New York track.

Originally scheduled for August 19, the Memorial Race was postponed until tomorrow when afternoon showers made it impossible to get the one-third mile clay track prepared.

Twenty-five of the fastest 1964-67 New Stock Car drivers are expected to compete in the event which honors the late Dean Layfield, a race driver, car owner and track official during the late 1950's. Layfield was killed four years ago in a racing accident at Perry, N.Y.

With just two weeks left of the 1967 season calendar, the race between Bob Schnars of Busti, N.Y., and Brockway's Squirt Johns is going right down to the wire.

Schnars currently leads the New Car point standings at Stateline but Johns holds a comfortable circuit margin in the over-all season.

The pair, along with Fred Knapp, winner of seven late model main events, Johnny Whitehead and Jim Scott will be after the added prize money and huge trophy.

Johns retired the original Layfield trophy in 1965 after he won the inaugural race in '64 and then his second consecutive in August of '65. Last year's event was won by now-retired Jim Pollaro of Jamestown, N.Y.

Also slated for another appearance this Saturday will be the "Hooligans". A class of semi-late model cars built inexpensively and driven by inexperienced drivers. Three races are scheduled including a 25 lap feature that carries a $100 first place prize.

The ever popular Sportsmen cars will also be on hand as Ronnie Blackmer, all but eliminated from the point championship, tries to win as many Sportsmen main events as he can and establish a new track record.

Lyle Brown has just about sewed up his second consecutive Sportsmen title after Blackmer has had trouble finishing the long distance races.

Other top Sportsmen drivers include Chuck Vorse of Erie, Blockville's Skip Furlow and Jim Sloan, and Jim Ruhlman of Youngsville.

The first of the exciting events will start at 8:30 p.m.

Jamestown Host To Net Tourney

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The 19th Annual Western New York Invitational Tennis Tourney will be held on Labor Day weekend, September 2-4, at A.I. Len Park.

All matches will be determined on the best of three sets, including the finals. Entries must be submitted to Richard Hernan, tournament chairman, 271 Prospect Street, Jamestown, no later than Wednesday, midnight, August 30. The entry fees are $3 for both men's and women's singles and $4 per team for men's and women's doubles.

Trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in all events and the name of the men's single champion will be engraved on the Jamestown Manufacturers' Association three-year bowl.

'The Answer' Is A MacDougal St. Hit

By McCANDLISH PHILLIPS
(C) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — The Salvation Army has opened an extremely groovy cafe on MacDougal Street in Greenwich Village across from The Freudian Slip and half a block from the Cafe Wha? It is called The Answer.

In three weeks the cafe has become a prime gathering spot for teenage drifters, runaways, teenyboppers and youthful hippies. It is often jammed and youths have to be turned away at the door.

The cafe is open seven nights a week, from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m., and it is decorated like a hippie joint with big flowers and photo posters and graffiti on the walls.

The talk at the small tables is of love and pot (marijuana) and sex, of death and life, and hope and despair. Sometimes it is of God.

A huge poster of Gen. William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, hangs next to a special painting of a green ghoul melting like wax under fire and sipping wine from a plastic sac. Calypso, jazz, folk and rock 'n' roll music issues from a hi-fi set.

The place is full at 8:10 p.m. The lights go out. The weird glow of a purple ultraviolet lamp makes everything white glow in the dark and everything dark fade into the background, so that a boy in a white shirt and a blue vest seems to have two disembodied arms.

Two young men with guitars stand on a tiny stage at the rear singing in sweet, wispy campfire-style voices of death and suicide and "comin' home in a plastic bag" from Vietnam.

The Salvation Army is paying $500 a month rent for the deep, narrow 7-X-24-foot stall. The Army is putting about $1,000 a month into a "coffeehouse ministry". The Answer is run by 24-year-old Capt. Brian J. Figueroa, who does not wear a Salvation Army uniform (He prefers blue shorts and sandals).

The cafe is intimate to the point of claustrophobia. The front window is a riot of bright yellow, blue and red. But down in one corner there is a telltale sign: it is the Army's official crest, showing a cross, two sorts and the Army's battle cry, "Blood and Fire" (which stand for "the blood of Jesus Christ and the fire of the Holy Spirit").

"We make no bones about the fact that we're Christians. Christ is the answer," Figueroa said.

"But we don't give it away," his 23-year-old assistant, Ed Herzberg, said.

"It's a subtle ministry. There's no hard sell," Figueroa went on. "These kids unfold in this kind of setting. You can really get to know them. They'll come to you and tell you, 'Captain Brian, I've got a hang-up,' and just to listen means a lot to them."

"The idea is to make this place as lax and as comfortable for the kids as possible," Herzberg said. "There are four very limited rules: no drugs whatever, no drinking whatever, no carrying on whatever, no foul language." The first two are observed, the other two are sometimes breached.

"The kids help enforce the no-pot rule," he said. "They say, 'no, no — not in here,' if anyone tries it. I'd say that every kid that comes in here has taken pot. They're not all on it, they've just tried it."

"They'd like to turn us on, they really would," Figueroa remarked. "We tell them, we're high on Jesus Christ, and that lasts. We're more convinced of what we've got, than they are of what they've got."

THE INFANTRY'S NOT FOR HIM

"The fact of the matter is, Sarge—my legs get tired on long marches trying to keep in step." That seems to be the long and the short of it for Army recruit Robert Clifford Daly. Daly, just two inches shorter than five feet, has decided the infantry just isn't for him as he stands dwarfed by SSG Lawrence Reeves, who stands 6-feet-6-inches tall. Daly first enlisted in the Army with hopes of becoming a tunnel rat in Vietnam, but the army decided he should first receive training at Ft. Ord California boot camp. The army has now reassigned him to Ft. Benning, Ga., where he will become airborne and not foot-weary.

Black Power Advocate's Passport to be Revoked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said yesterday it is revoking the passport of George Washington Ware, a Black Power advocate, on grounds he made an unauthorized trip to Cuba. Similar action already has been taken against Stokely Carmichael on the same grounds.

Press officer Carl Barch said a letter dated Aug. 23 is being delivered to Ware in Nashville, Tenn., notifying him of the invalidation of his passport. Ware faces state sedition charges in Nashville.

A similar letter was dispatched to Carmichael's Bronx, New York, address on Aug. 3, the department spokesman added.

Carmichael, however, was reported earlier to have gone from Cuba to North Vietnam.

In cases in which the person abroad losing his passport has not received the official notification, his passport is deemed valid only for return to the United States, Barch said.

Both Black Power proponents were in Cuba for the recent Latin American Revolutionary Conference sponsored by Fidel Castro's communist regime.

Cuba is one of the countries ruled off-limits to U.S. citizens by the State Department except when it gives special permission for such travel.

Join Marines on 'Buddy Plan'

MYERS

CHRISTENSON

Three local youths departed this morning for Parris Island, S.C., where they will undergo eight weeks of recruit training under the U.S. Marine Corps "Buddy Plan."

Leaving are Marine Pvt. Edmond C. Christenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Christenson Jr., 158 Follett Run rd.; Pvt. Gerald R. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald G. Myers, RD 1, Clarendon and Pvt. Dwight E. Jayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Jayne, of 21 Timothy ave., North Warren.

The marines, all 1967 graduates of Warren Area High School, were employed locally prior to departure. They have been in the 120-day-delay program which counts for promotion and pay purposes.

Upon successful completion of the eight week recruit phase, the trio goes to Camp Lejeune, N. C. for advanced training after which they will spend a short leave at home.

At the present time the Marine Corps is offering two, three and four year enlistments and an aviation guarantee to those who qualify. For more information contact Gysgt. Reynolds at 800 Pennsylvania ave. W. or call either 723-2611 or 723-7148.

Breakfast Briefs

Was Victimized

A Corry woman told police she was victimized by a man who came to her house Monday night indicating he wanted to buy some antique items. She said the man called himself "Taylor" and told her he was from Erie. He selected two items and paid for them, then set aside several other items, telling the woman he would get the money from his wife and return. Meanwhile, she said, he saw a jar full of coins and asked if it was for sale. She said no and went into another room. When she returned the man had gone and taken the jar.

5-Day Forecast

Near normal temperatures are forecast for western Pennsylvania with daytime highs in the high 70s and lows around 60. There will be little change through Monday. Rainfall will total one inch or more. Fairly frequent periods of scattered showers and thundershowers this weekend through early next week.

Methodist Men

Two "Lay Activities Week-ends" for Methodist men will be sponsored by the board of lay activities of the Methodist western Pennsylvania Conference in mid-September. Men from the 750 conference churches can attend either the weekend at the Jumboville Training Center, Untonville, Sept. 8-10 or the weekend at Wesley Woods Camp, Grand Valley, Sept. 15-17.

Workshop

Edinboro State College recently conducted a workshop for teachers of migrant workers, sponsored jointly with the Department of Public Instruction. Thirteen teachers from the Edinboro area participated in the program which explored the characteristics and needs of these children and developed educational programs and services to help them. Among those who participated were Stanley K. Emlet, Pittsfield School Bear Lake and John A. Johnson of Sheffield.

Meter Receipts

Borough on-street parking meters were tapped for $504.57 this week as police made the rounds. Municipal parking lots yielded $210.25.

MUNICIPAL CENTER FOR CITY OF JAMESTOWN, N.Y.

Architects Warren P. Howard Jr. and Mario Domenici this week unveiled the design for Jamestown's proposed new city hall. This drawing by the New York State firm shows how the edifice would look to someone standing on the northwest corner of Third and Spring sts. The structure to be located at its present site would rise six stories. The dark lines represent vertical glass panels rising the full height of the building. Overall cost was set at about $4.7 million and all but about $300,000 would be raised by bond issue. City Council gave the architects authority to proceed with design-development stage.

State's Point System Shows an Effective Deterrent on Vehicle Code Violations

Statistics released on experience under Pennsylvania's educational Point System during its first year in operation were viewed by Harry H. Brainerd, Commissioner of Traffic Safety, as showing an effective deterrent on Vehicle Code violations. During the period since the law became effective July 24, 1966 to August 1, 1967, there were 287,948 convictions under the Point System.

Of this number, 59,654 motorists were notified to attend a Driver Improvement School, and another 182,606 received notification that they had accumulated five or less points. Six points makes attendance at a Driver Improvement School mandatory. Only 2,757 motorists amassed six points a second time during the one-year period, requiring a special examination, and 23 reached six points a third time, requiring an interview with the Secretary of Revenue for review and appropriate action. Another 7,525 convictions are pending for processing after the driver's current record is cleared, while 15,381 convictions of junior operators were processed under the former suspension since junior operators do not come under the Point System. "While these figures are nothing of which our motorists can be proud," Commissioner Brainerd said, "we do feel we are moving in the right direction in that less than one per cent of those drivers required to attend a Driver Improvement School under provisions of the Point System have been repeaters. "We feel that this fact, in addition to the fact that only about one per cent of motorists who took the course came back with a new offense makes it evident that this system is working well," he said, adding:

"Of course, a one-year period is not sufficient time to accurately determine whether any new program is working satisfactorily, and two or three years' experience will be necessary before anyone can definitely state that the system is or is not doing the job which was intended when the law was enacted—education and motivation for all motorists to become better drivers.

"For example," the safety official pointed out, "we have no basis on which to compare suspensions and revocations under the Point System to those under the former system. To attempt to draw comparisons would be like comparing apples to grapes." Under the Point System, motorists lose their operating privileges for 60 days once 11 points are accumulated for various infractions of traffic laws. The system, however, does provide automatic suspension for excessive speed or for failing to attend a driver school or a special driver examination when required.

Not included in the Point System are violations requiring mandatory suspension, among these such violations as drinking and driving, use of narcotics or habit-producing drugs, and failure to stop and render assistance when involved in an accident.

Brainerd, in announcing experience under the law during its first year, reports that the convictions "run the gamut" of point penalties, ranging from three points for improper passing and overtaking, to six points for speeding and improper passing on a curve or crest of a hill.

Of the 287,948 convictions received 104,700 were for speed violations and 163,248 for all other infractions of traffic laws. However, it was noted that speed violations cover various categories and ranges in the matter of excess of speed limits. Traffic signal and stop sign violations by far exceeded all other causes for convictions, with the exception of the combined speed categories.

Traffic signal violations led the list at 62,129 convictions, followed by stop sign violations at 33,020 convictions. Both infractions carry a five point penalty.

Other leading infractions and the number of convictions were as follows:

Reckless driving, 20,657; driving too fast for conditions, 13,726; improper turning, 10,715; improper passing, 6,283; exceptions to right-of-way, 6,232; driving to left center of highway, 4,795; and failure to yield right-of-way, 2,590.

In the speeding categories, 39,354 motorists had three points charged against their records for speeds up to ten miles per hour over legal posted limits, while another 33,322 were convicted of speeding from 11 to 15 m.p.h. over legal limits, receiving six points and requiring their attendance at a Driver Improvement School.

Other speeding violations, all of which require attendance at a school, were as follows:

Speeding, 16 to 20 m.p.h. over legal limits, 10,726 convictions, carrying a six-point penalty and a 15-day suspension; 21 to m.p.h. in excess of legal limits, 4,277 convictions, six points and a 30-day suspension, and 31 m.p.h. and more over legal limits, 2,115 convictions, six points and a 60-day suspension.

Other speed convictions, such as exceeding the 15 m.p.h. speed limit in school zones, the 20 m.p.h. limit at railroad crossings, and similar violations accounted for the balance of the 104,700 speed violation convictions.

Brainerd said, "We believe the statistics are proving that the required attendance of a motorist accumulating six points at a Driver Improvement School is motivating drivers picking up three, four and five points to do better to keep from picking up the 'school' point(s)."

"The education feature of the law comes in when the driver is required to attend a school. Drivers, regardless of their past records or the number of years they have driven without an accident, are finding they can pick up new techniques and skills, as well as gain clarification of traffic regulations which perhaps they did not fully understand."

"Once a driver gets points on his record," he explained, "most want to clear their record."

Two points are removed from the driver's record for each year he drives without a violation. One point is erased after successful completion of a Driver Improvement School, but failure to attend results in an additional five points and a 60-day suspension of operating privileges.

Brainerd said the educational, motivational and preventative features of the Point System Law and experience during the first year the system has been in operation, indicate that this system will prove an effective aid in the prevention of accidents on state highways in the future, but reiterated his contention that several more years are needed before it can be definitely determined how effective the present law will be.

Sideswipes Car

KANE—A Sugar Grove woman, reportedly blinded by headlights of an oncoming car, sideswiped the vehicle shortly before midnight here Tuesday. According to Kane police, Florence Irwin, 26, Sugar Grove was traveling north on Fraley st. near the state police station when she sideswiped a car operated by George Bender, 18, of Kane. Police said damage was minor and no injuries were reported.

A 1967 graduate of Tidoute High School, he enlisted for medical care and treatment field, inducted in Buffalo, N.Y., he reported first to Fort Dix, N.J.

Views on Traffic Issue

People employed in the area of Pennsylvania avenue and Market street and who daily view the long congested line of traffic on the avenue, have offered the following solution as at least temporary. One way traffic from General Joseph Park east to Conewango on Pennsylvania avenue.

West bound traffic turn right on Conewango avenue—route over Third street bridge—bridge could be either reinforced or new—this would probably take about four months or better but less time than to wait for by-pass and Dorcon to relieve situation. No left turn from Market onto Pennsylvania for southbound traffic. Cars could be routed through plaza. Move traffic light from East to Water and time light properly to keep flow moving.

One way traffic Liberty street to Fourth avenue north and one way Hickory to Pennsylvania avenue south.

Clerks Can Appoint Solicitor

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG—Clerks of Orphans' Courts of sixth class counties such as Warren County are now authorized to appoint a solicitor, under terms of a new law enacted by the 1967 Legislature and signed by the Governor.

The act specifies that such solicitor shall be "learned in the law" and shall serve as the solicitor to the Clerk of Orphans' Court except in those cases where the clerk also serves as the Register of Wills.

The solicitor, under terms of the new act, "shall advise the Clerk of the Orphans' Court on all legal matters that may be submitted to him, and conduct all litigation connected with the clerk's office when requested to do so by the Clerk of the Orphans' Court."

Another new law enacted by the 1967 Legislature and now approved by the Governor increased from ten to 20 cents the amount of payment to be made by the State Tax Equalization Board to county commissioners of sixth class counties such as Warren County covering each conveyance or transfer of real estate on each list prepared, certified and delivered to the State Tax Equalization Board for its use.

A third new law, this one pertaining to the election of members of council in boroughs, such as the six boroughs in Warren County, corrects an error in an act of last year providing for the election of councilmen whose terms expire in 1970. The "error" specified that such councilmen shall be elected in the year 1967. This has been changed to read 1969 in the new act.

Unemployment Claims Down For Week

Both initial and continued claims for unemployment compensation decreased during the week ending August 18, according to Jack B. Brown, executive director, Bureau of Employment Security. Brown pointed out that the volume of the current weekly initial and continued claims is the smallest filed in any week to date during 1967.

The 62,796 continued claims filed represent a decrease of 2,620 from the volume of one week ago but an increase of 15,298 over the number filed in the same week one year ago. The decrease was concentrated in the apparel, construction and electrical machinery industries.

Initial claims filed totalled 11,769, or 742 less than the number filed in the preceding week. The current decrease in initial claims was concentrated in the electrical machinery, trade and chemicals industries.

During the week 55,414 UC checks amounting to $1,813,640 were issued to regular UC claimants.

Permanent Press Introduced

W. T. Grant Co. is introducing a new development in permanent press work clothes.

To be featured in October is a handsome line of permanent press work sets of "tough stuff" high-tenacity polyester and cotton, the first fiber blend ever engineered specifically to strengthen permanent press fabrics.

The WTG work sets will be introduced in all popular colors during the store's anniversary sale, Oct. 5-7 at a special three-day get acquainted sale.

The work sets were put through rigorous testing by Cone Mills, the manufacturer and were alternated for 40 days and 40 washings with similar clothing made with conventional fibers. Beant's tough stuff fiber, used in WTG work sets, outperformed all others in long wear, color retention and resistance to abrasion.

Burglary Loss Set at $1,500

CORRY — The investigation into the safe burglary at the Spartansburg Agway mill is continuing by state police trooper John Evanko of the Corry substation and an inventory by mill personnel revealed that nothing was taken except the metal cash box from the demolished safe.

Damage to the building, the safe and the cash loss has been set at a total of $1,500, according to John Taylor, an employee who discovered the burglary.

He said the amount of cash taken could not be revealed. From all indications the week-end burglary was committed by persons who had attempted a similar robbery a few months ago, police said.

Fingerprints taken at the scene were being processed Wednesday, according to Evanko.

Credit Offered For Outdoor Recreation

Credit for financing well planned community-backed outdoor recreation centers is available in Erie and Warren counties through the Farmers Home Administration supervised loan program.

Robert J. Meneely, the Agency's county supervisor, with offices at Corry, this week described some of the various kinds of projects that have been financed by Farmers Home Administration loans in rural areas. He said these loans are proving to be one of America's most effective rural areas development tools. Some communities have been able to attract new industry because of their new recreation projects.

Community recreation projects financed by Farmers Home Administration includes fishing and boating and swimming facilities; sports, camping and picnicking areas; vacation farms; travel trailer parks; vacation cabins and cottages; hunting preserves; and golf courses.

"Rural communities," he said, "that can boast a new swimming pool, an attractive public park, a golf course or other such recreation facility have a very important asset in the fierce competition to attract new businesses and industry."

"One rural community in eastern North Carolina that borrowed $100,000 to build a golf course, swimming pool and tennis courts in 1963 attracted two industries that now employ 450 people. The plant managers have frankly stated that they chose the community because of the recreation facilities it provided their employees," he pointed out.

Any group who applies to the Farmers Home Administration for credit assistance will have available to them the knowledge that the agency has gained financing approximately 1,100 recreation projects throughout the country.

Complete information on loans to community groups for recreation purposes along with details about technical assistance in developing the project can be obtained from Robert J. Meneely, at his office, located in the Post Office Building, Corry, Pennsylvania.

THE ANNUAL FEDERATION DANCE FOR ALL WESTERN STYLE square dancers—there are twenty-two clubs in the Allegheny Square Dance Federation—is set for tomorrow night in Bradford, according to the Robert Kellersmans who are members of the local Circle 8 Square Dancers, and delegates to the federation. The lively and colorful affair will take place in the Evans Roller Dome and is the “kick-off” for the fall square dance season. Three top federation callers will keep feet tapping and patterns flowing: Earl Geiss, Al Wierich and Bill Johnson—Western Style square dancers may purchase tickets from their federation delegates, or at the door; tickets at $2 per couple include refreshments.

THE SHEFFIELD WOMAN'S CLUB starts its new 1967-68 program on Monday, August 28th when the members gather for a Tea at the home of Mrs. Evelyn P. Gallor at 3 o'clock. A musical program will be enjoyed, and the new programs for the year will be distributed. Assisting the hostess will be the members of the program committee: Mrs. Louis Slater, Mrs. Fred Carlson and Mrs. Blenda Hinkley.

PLAYING THE LEAD ROLE OF TOM in Tennessee Williams “Glass Menagerie” with the summer theatre group at Allegheny College, Meadville, is Chip Lucia — The play opened last night in Cochran Hall on the college campus and will close tomorrow evening — Chip, who will be remembered for his very recent portrayal of Nick in “Whose Afraid of Virginia Woolf?” and also for his Timmie in “The Subject Was Roses” at Plowright Playhouse, is a Gannon College graduate, '67, and in the fall will take up graduate studies in Drama at Columbia University for his Master's degree. The young Warren actor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lucia. Well, for those of you who might be traveling down that way, curtain time is 8:30 p. m. —Michael Boyar of Jamestown is director of summer theatre at Allegheny College.

SO, SUMMER IS ALMOST OVER and you're going after your first job? Thus Max Factor starts out his “Timely Beauty Hints”, and he goes on to say that a girl clad in a neat, dark suit or dress with fresh white touches, sparkling clean gloves and a smart, neat coiffure is the dream of every man who hires someone for the distaff side. About makeup, it is better to err on the underdone than on the side of the overdone — The discreet use of everything you normally use for daytime is the rule — all makeup should be applied with the light touch in order to look beautifully natural; use the merest whisper of a light spray cologne; it goes without saying the hair should be neat and shining, and, to complete the picture of the girl about to win her first job, the manner should be quiet, pleasant, but alert and confident.

MINIATURES: The annual homecoming of the Thompson Hill School Reunion will be held at the Thompson Hill Schoolhouse this Sunday, August 27th. All former pupils, teachers and friends are urged to attend.—A tureen dinner will be served at 1:30 p. m., with the committee providing coffee and Kool-Aid. The correct address of newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. James Michael Harriman is 3010B Westhaven Drive, Amarillo, Texas 79111. Mrs. Harriman is the former Sandra Jean Haller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Haller of Akeley. This Sunday the Conewango Valley Country Club's annual swimming meet for youngsters in the 5 to 16 age group will take place at 2 p.m. Participants and watchers are asked to note the change in time.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When does “minding one's own business” cease to be a virtue and begin to be an act of cowardice? This morning I heard a youngster crying in front of my house. I looked out to see a little neighbor child surrounded by four jeering children. The boy was wearing a diaper over his trousers and had a cardboard sign around his neck which read, “I am seven years old and I still wet my bed.” I was furious and went outside and began to remove the sign and the diaper. My husband stopped me and said, “It is none of your business.” I know the child's mother. She is a divorcee and as nifty as a fruitcake. Her oldest boy plays centerfield with his thumb in his mouth. A middle child, a girl, has a nervous eye tick and stutters. Now this little fellow is being tortured because he wets the bed. Should I try to help these kids by talking to them? Or should I plead with the deranged mother to get some help for herself and her children?—NO NAME PLEASE

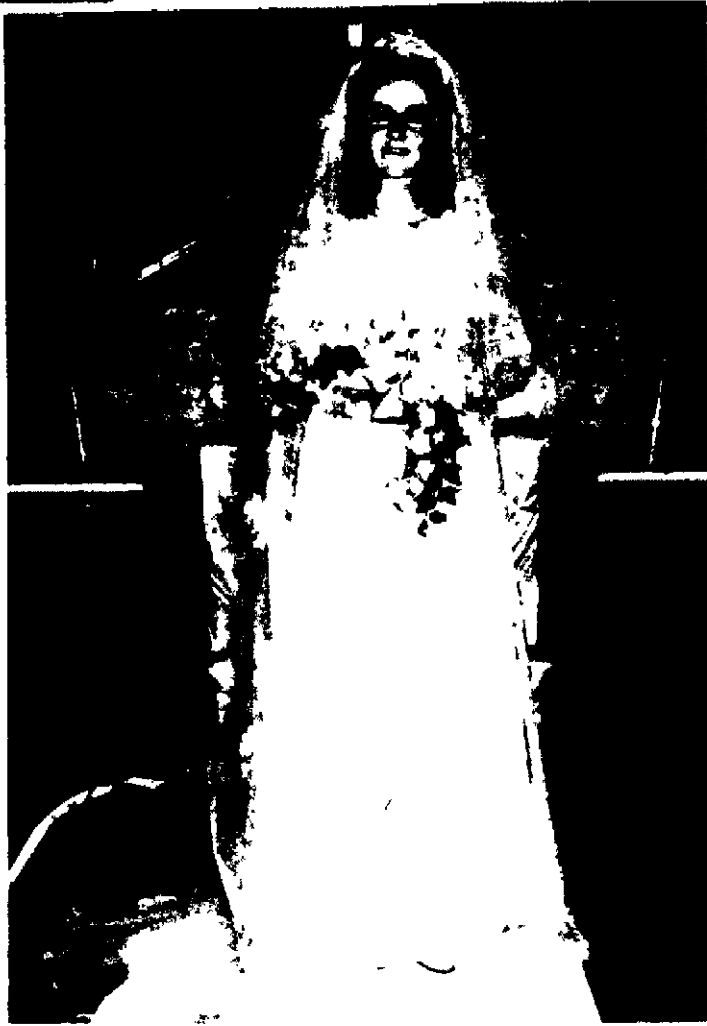

DEAR N.N.P.: Pleading with deranged people is useless. Your best bet is to have a talk with the teachers in whose classes these unfortunate children will be next fall. Surely they will recognize evidence of a tragic home life. Your information and interest should encourage the teachers to investigate and see that the appropriate steps are taken to save these kids.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter wants to go steady. I see nothing wrong with it since the boy is a very nice lad and comes from a good family. My husband is against it. He says it is ridiculous to allow a 13-year-old girl to accept a boy's friendship ring and go only with him. I understood from friends that going steady does not mean what it did in our day. They claim it is the “in” thing and that most kids outgrow it. We have been having some fairly heated discussions on this subject since my husband and I are divided. The line-up is now two against two. Our 17-year-old son sides with his father. What do you say?—PARK RIDGE

DEAR PARK: I just tipped the balance. It's 3 to 2, and I'm with your husband and your son. Not only am I against 13-year-olds going steady, I am against 13-year-olds going. Period. What's your big hurry to get this little chick grown up? I don't know what your friends mean when they say going steady doesn't mean what it did in our day. The basic idea is the same—“everybody else, hands off.” This is a poor approach even for 18- and 17-year-olds. If you came to me for support, Madame, you rattled the wrong cage.

Confidential to Hate The Stuff: Leave it alone, Stupid. Of course he wants you to drink with him. What does he have to lose? He's already a drunk. Furthermore, booze is one of the best known devices to break down a girl's resistance.

Hints From Heloise

Laundering Advice

DEAR FOLKS: A nice gentleman from one of the largest manufacturers of washing machines sent me some very expert advice on laundering clothes. Here's what he says: “We read with interest your most recent article concerning the graying of clothes. We can only add the following to your excellent findings.

“Water turbidity, caused by the presence of fine particles of matter such as sand, clay, or vegetable matter suspended in the water, sometimes causes a gray appearance to the clothes and can be removed by bleaching.

“Hard water can also cause grayness. A water softener can correct this condition.

“Also, too little detergent may cause gray clothes from insufficient soil removal, or from the removal soil being redeposited on the clothes.

“If soil is allowed to settle back on the clothes after it has been suspended by detergent and water action, the soil becomes redeposited and is almost impossible to remove. A sufficient amount of detergent must be used in relation to the amount of soil present and the clothes should not be allowed to soak in the detergent solution for an extended period.

“Neither should they be agitated in the washer for an excessively long period of time, since the detergent cannot suspend the soil indefinitely.”

Robert M. Gross

Ah, how nice of you to write, Sir. Thank you no end. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: I believe every young mother who has a kindergarten-age child would like to hear my idea.

A short time before your child starts to school, find out who a few of the children are that are starting with him.

Give a little party — just something easy so that he can meet and get acquainted with the other children.

I did this and my child was happy to start to school. He didn't feel he was among strangers and looked forward to seeing his new friends again.

Put your gelatin salad in one of your fancy glass bowls. Set a pretty glass of sugar bowl in the center of the liquid gelatin. Weight it down by putting several spoons in it.

When the salad has set and you are ready to serve, remove the spoons and fill the center glass with salad dressing.

Thanks, Edyth, for writing. Your idea is great. And did you know you could also use a little cold water in the glass to weight it down? Then just pour it out when you're ready to serve.

Dorotics-Remich Wedding Vows Pledged At High Noon Nuptial Mass

Barbara Jo Dorotics and Anthony Paul Remich Jr. spoke their marriage vows August 19 at a 12 o'clock Nuptial Mass. Father John Carter of St. Clara's Church in Clarendon officiated. Decorating the altar for the double ring ceremony were two vases of white gladioli and white pompons.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dorotics of 18 Anchor street, Clarendon, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Remich of 549 Charles avenue, New Kensington. Wedding music was provided by Miss Janina Swartz, godmother of the bride. Two hundred guests were in attendance.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a cage silhouette gown fashioned in Chantilly lace with scalloped neckline and Saxon sleeves. The chapel length Watteau train with lace motif appliques was edged in satin binding. Her bouffant veil of imported English illusion was secured by a jewel encrusted lace petal spray. Her long cascade bouquet was of white bridal roses; she placed a bouquet of white roses at the Blessed Mother's altar.

Mrs. Harlan Brian, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of green spray silk chiffon over taffeta. Her butterfly veil was caught to a matching chiffon petal cluster hat. Identically dressed were the bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Lobdell, Miss Pat, sy Walker, cousin of the bride, and Miss Debbie Walker, cousin of the bride. All the attendants carried bouquets of yellow and white carnations. The flower girl, Mistress Brenda Dorotics, sister of the bride, was dressed in a gown identical to the attendants. She carried a miniature bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

Best Man was David Remich, brother of the groom, from New Kensington. Ronald Remich, brother of the groom, Dennis Manganelli and Gene Zola all of New Kensington ushered. Master Randall Walker, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

For the occasion the mother of the bride chose a pink lace dress with matching accessories. The mother of the groom wore a beige dress with matching accessories. Both had white sweetheart rose corsages. Grandmother of the bride, Mrs. John Dorotics Sr., was remembered with a corsage of yellow carnations.

The wedding reception was held at the St. Paul's Center in Saybrook with two hundred guests present. Decorations included centerpieces of yellow and white gladioli and carnations on both the bridal table and the buffet. Aides included Mrs. Charles Dorotics, aunt of the bride, who served the cake and Miss Paula Adda, cousin of the groom, who managed the guest book.

For traveling to New York City, the bride wore a green knit suit and a going away corsage from the bridal bouquet. The couple will make their home at 1013 Conewango ave., Warren.

Mrs. Remich is a graduate of Warren Area High School and Clarion State College, she also attended the University of Maryland. Mr. Remich is a graduate

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE S. O'DELL
(Borg Studio)

Judith A. Benson, Bride Of Lawrence S. O'Dell

Judith A. Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Benson, 45 Mill st., Sheffield, became the bride of Lawrence S. O'Dell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel O'Dell, 937 Cedar ave., Sharon, on August 12, 1967 at 2:30 p. m., in Bethany Lutheran Church, The Rev. Carl F. Eliason, officiated at the double ring ceremony, before an altar decorated with carnations, white chrysanthemums and gladiolas. Wedding music was provided by organist Mrs. Gerald Newburg, Sheffield and soloist, Leland Engman.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of traditional heirloom ivory satin and Alencon lace embroidered bodice with portrait neckline, full skirt of satin, covered with net and appliques of reemboirered lace. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a high lace crown with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses and baby's breath, centered with a white rose corsage.

The bride's attendants were dressed alike in yellow sheath gowns with white embroidered bodices and yellow bishop's coat, with a headdress of matching rose petal veil. Maid of honor was Miss Marie Testa, of Farrell. Bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Benson, Warren, cousin of the bride and Miss Donna Simpson of Mercer. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Trina Benson, Warren, cousin of the bride. She wore a pale yellow sheath gown with rust colored net bow fastened to the back and yellow headdress. All carried a cascade of rust colored daisies.

Mrs. Benson, the bride's mother, wore a green linen sheath and matching jacket, bone accessories, and a corsage of burnt orange talisman roses.

Mother of the groom, Mrs. O'Dell, wore a two-piece blue knit dress with white accessories. Her corsage was white sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Ralph Tanner, grandmother of the bride, was presented with a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

Best man was Timothy Susick of Farrell. Ushers were Chris Benson, Sheffield, brother of the bride, Bruce Engman, Ludlow, cousin of the bride, James Parcetch, Farrell, cousin of the groom and Thomas Zager, Farrell.

Ring bearer was Mark Benson, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall. Decorations were rust, yellow and white colored flowers with sprigs of green ivy for the punch and buffet table, with the bridesmaids bouquets as center pieces for the bride's and buffet table. Vases of yellow chrysanthemums, daisies and gladiolas were placed about Fellowship Hall.

For a honeymoon to Niagara Falls and Canada, the bride chose a gold suit with dark brown accessories and wore a corsage of white sweetheart roses. Following their wedding trip they will reside at 243 Liberty st., Sharon.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Sheffield High School and a graduate of Sharon General Hospital School of Nursing in 1967. She is presently employed at Sharon General Hospital.

The groom is a 1964 graduate of Sharon High School and is attending Youngstown University. He is employed at Sharon General Hospital.

Prenuptial parties for the bride were given by Miss Marie Testa and Miss Donna Simpson, Farrell, Mrs. Romain F. Cole, Sharon and by aunts of the bride, Ludlow. The rehearsal dinner was held at Hillcrest Restaurant, Kane, Pa., and was hosted by the groom's parents.

A New You by Emily Wilkens "Happy Job Hunting"

The crucial test, career-wise, isn't necessarily how well you type or take dictation. How you look, speak and act all play an important part in whether or not you land and keep that marvelous, going-places job.

Highly qualified girls who've neglected or overplayed their looks often lose out to those who are not quite so qualified but who have learned the importance of playing up their appearances and personalities. Job seekers would do well to brush up on looks as well as on typing before venturing out into the happy job-hunting ground.

DRESS THE PART

You're out to snag a job, not to impress a Broadway producer or your favorite date. Leave your miniest mini-skirts, brightest shifts and zaniest patterned stockings at home. Wear a simple, classic dress in a neutral color and durable fabric, which will stand up through several appointments without wrinkling or creasing. High heels and jingly bracelets are out.

In large cities, a hat and gloves (to wear, not tote) are preferable. Suburbs and outlying sections may be more relaxed about this rule, but a flattering hat and spanking clean gloves always make a good impression, as do polished shoes and a trim uncluttered bag. None of this means that you have to look like Good Old Greta Gooch, girl secretary. It simply means that the tastefully dressed, efficient-looking job hunter has the inside track when a choice amongst applicants is imminent.

MAKE DOWN, NOT UP

Your makeup should be subtle or the interviewer may suspect that you'll spend more time primping in the ladies' lounge than working at your desk. Unquestionably, use whatever beauty aids you need to look your best, but don't come on like a femme fatale. False lashes, heavy eyeliner and exotic scents, if used at all, should be saved for evening hours.

SANE AND SENSIBLE

Contrary to popular opinion, most interviewers are nice people who do their best to put you at ease. Don't let your nervousness get the upper hand. Avoid jittery chatter and jumpy fidgeting. Follow the interviewer's lead. Let him ask the questions. Answer as fully as possible. Don't volunteer lots of extraneous facts, especially the personal kind.

Have your background information ready. It's nerve-racking to have to dive into your purse to find references and telephone numbers. A neatly typed resume makes an excellent impression. Why not bring several along in a flat leather case?

Be on your very best behavior. Good manners always aid a job hunter's cause. Use the name of the person you're talking to as often as is seemly, i.e.: "Here is my resume, Mr. Smith."

If you're nervous, keep your hands folded quietly in your lap. Gum chewing and smoking are things to be avoided when out on a job hunt. They simply shriek "bad taste".

Be on time for your appointment, too. Better ten minutes early than a minute late.

Make happy job hunting part of the "New You" and you'll be off on the road to a wonderful, rewarding career.

JUST FOR YOU:

If you're a white glove fancier and plan to wear them on your interviews all day long, tote along an extra pair. Make a quick switch as soon as the first pair shows the least sign of soil.

Opening lead: King of ♠ Careful conservation of dummy's trump holding was essential to a successful campaign by South, the declarer at four spades.
West opened the king of hearts on which East followed with the eight. West continued with the ace and when his partner completed the echo by dropping the five, he led a third round of the suit.
South observed that, if he ruffed in dummy, East was apt to overruff and with only two trumps left in the North hand and the defensive book in, there would be little chance left to dispose of declarer's club losers. South reasoned that he could maintain better control over the proceedings by preserving the dummy's trump holding intact, and he accordingly discarded a diamond on the third heart which East ruffed with the four of spades.

A spade was returned and South played the ace. He led over to the king of clubs and back to the ace and then ruffed a third round of clubs with the three of spades. A diamond was trumped in the closed hand and the ten of clubs was returned. West discarded a heart and North's ten of spades was put to good use as East helplessly followed suit with the jack of clubs. Declarer ruffed himself in once more with a diamond and claimed the last two tricks with high trumps.

Observe that, if South attempts to ruff West's heart lead at trick three with the ten of spades, East will overruff and a trump return will leave the dummy with only one spade. Declarer can ruff out one club, however, he will be left with a losing club at the end and cannot avoid a setback.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Important decisions, research, experimentation are left to your discretion now. Therefore, everything must be carefully worked out, considered BEFORE taking action.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Some intrigue evident. Keep suspicion and involvement to a minimum. Go your sturdy way unaffected by pettiness or deception, except to combat it with high principles.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Especially favored now: Advancement in electronics, research, writing, intellectual pursuits, generally. Day does call for inner strength and integrity, however.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Dividends indicated from past good work and interest in progressive methods. There may be some complex situations but, with astute judgment, you can solve them.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Less than your finest will not be acceptable now. And people know what you can produce, as you do yourself. Stress quality above quantity.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Be your most ambitious self now. Attainment through thorough study, experiment, listening to others indicated in this day's success picture.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Do not wait for things to "happen"; make sure they will by dint of your determined and potent endeavor. Protect and aid worthy causes.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Governed by better-than-usual aspects are clerking, secretarial and confidential work, home activities, children's and elders' plans. To all: Be discreet, patient.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Give all the benefit of the doubt. Listen to their words with trust. Skepticism and doubt are tendencies now. Keep them from damaging your associations.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—A somewhat mild day unless you do something definite about it. You could end the week on a note of commanding proportions, or let it peter out dully. It's up to you.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Will you cooperate with proper sources? Will you act smoothly and with meaningful continuity? Or will you wander and dissipate energies? The REAL you must speak—and ACT.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Trade, buy, sell, but all in due and thoughtfully considered degree. Figures should be investigated, promises made without recklessness.

YOU BORN TODAY: Many persons take to you, forming business partnerships, friendships. You can, because of your ambitions and intellectual pursuits get along with just about anyone. You are bright. Use that fine gift well, for in all undertakings you will sense results of either well-directed or misdirected interest. The Virgoan appreciates the value of knowledge. When highly developed he can be a clever teacher, organizer, but self-restraint is always important. Birthdate of: James Lick, astronomer; Bret Harte, Amer. author; Leonard Bernstein, symphony conductor.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

FISH EXCELLENT FOOD
How does fish rate as a food? Excellent, considering its low cost and nutritional value. It contains high quality proteins and does not differ in nutritive values from other forms of meat. Fish is well tolerated and easily digested. Because it contains more of the polyunsaturated fatty acids than that found in other meats, it is suggested in low cholesterol diets. Fish oils also are rich in vitamins A and D.

Perch, red snapper, cod, flounder, haddock, halibut and sea bass are lowest in fat content. A 3-ounce serving contains less than two grams of fat (97 calories), and 19 grams of protein. Salmon, trout, herring, mackerel, and sardines contain just as much protein but almost five times as much fat with a total of 170 calories in a 3-ounce portion.

Cooking and serving methods determine the total caloric value. Broiling reduces caloric content because some fat is lost in the drippings. Heavy cream or sour cream dressing such as is popular with herring or salmon, adds calories. A lemon garnish adds nothing but enhances taste. Fish canned in oil also is richer in calories but this is reduced by draining off the oil. The bones in canned sardines and salmon add additional calcium and iron. Dietetic tuna and salmon are packed in water and prepared without salt and oil.

Oysters and other shellfish also are excellent. Their composition is similar to other fish and meats except that they contain more carbohydrate. Their calcium content runs above meat but below milk. Clams, crabs, lobsters, and shrimp are similar to oysters in nutritional value.

TOMORROW: Highlighting Hepatitis.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

MT. EVEREST PRESSURE
G. L. A. writes: What is the highest blood pressure ever recorded by medical science?

REPLY
The ordinary blood pressure machine usually goes as high as 300 mm. Hg. 1/2 have seen several persons with higher readings but a special apparatus is needed to determine the exact elevation. I presume a record figure is tucked away somewhere in the medical literature.

ENLARGED PROSTATE
E. N. W. writes: If a man's prostate is enlarged, but causing no trouble, is operation necessary?

REPLY
No, provided enlargement is not due to tumor. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on disorders of the prostate. It tells about the anatomy of this organ and abnormalities that may affect it.

THEATER REVIEW

Rusty Schneck's Performance As 'Madwoman' is Surprising

By BETTY RICE

The summer season is drawing to a close much too soon, at least for those who enjoy really good theater.

"The Madwoman of Chailot" by the famous French author Jean Giraudoux premiered Wednesday evening at Plowright Playhouse and proved a refreshing climax to the heavy but excellent drama featured previously.

Perhaps the greatest surprise of the evening was the performance of Jayne (Rusty) Schneck in the title role. There were delightful moments when one felt the presence of a second Agnes Moorehead. Rusty, as the Countess Aurelia, proved herself as capable of capturing a mood on stage as she does on canvas.

In laying a plot to rid the world of greed and bring more freedom so birds can sing and flowers bloom, the countess brings to her underground apartment, three other out-this world characters, Mme. Constance, Madwoman of Passy (Patty Waples); Mlle. Gabrielle, Madwoman of St. Suplice (Marsha Larson) and Mme. Josephine, Madwoman of La Concorde (Anne Putnam).

The Misses Waples, Larson and Putnam each brought a very special talent to their roles and added the essential ingredients to create the summer theater's fifth and final smash hit of the too short season.

While all in the supporting cast turned in polished performances, it must be noted that Jemil Gonyuk as one of The Presidents well deserved the hearty applause accorded him on opening night.

Plowright Playhouse is bringing the public an engrossing play, imaginative, wacky and very, very funny. It's "family fare" for both young people and adults, liberally sprinkled with appreciative chuckles and wholesome laughter. Bill Odell has again proved himself a skilled director.

Other cast members in the fast-paced production are: Bill Fuellhart, the waiter; Chris Wade, the little man; Al Blyler, the prospector; Ron Quicksall, the Baron; Peggy Kates, the singing peddler; Keith Rosendahl, the rag picker; Tom Keehler, the deaf mute; Laura Knupp, Irma; Gary Mat Lott, the broker; Ross Bryan III, the street juggler; Bob Kates, the policeman; Charles Church, Pierre.

Dual roles are played by Marsha Larsen, Anne Putnam, Gary Mar Lott, Chris Wade, Ron Quicksall, and Robert Kates. Evan Wolf appears as the sergeant while director Odell makes two quick appearances as Dr. Hadin and the sewer man.

"Madwoman" is repeated tonight, Saturday and Sunday with an 8:30 p.m. curtain time.

Friday's TV Highlights

We always said we could brew more beer than you could drink. Until last year.

Last year, you might have found a tavern tap running dry. Last year, you might have found it tough to get Koehler.

For last year, beer drinkers drank Koehler at a record rate. They discovered that no one makes beer like Koehler. Big, frothy, inviting collars. Clean, clear, effervescent taste. The kind of beer you'd expect from a brewer who's been in the business since 1847.

So they drank. And we brewed. And they drank. And we brewed. And, understandably, we had a bit of a problem keeping up. But now the problem's licked. We've upped our production. And we're brewing enough Koehler for everyone.

Of course, that's what we said last year. Erie Brewing Company, Erie, Pa.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, August 29, 1967, at 10:00 A. M. in the Main Courtroom of the Warren County Courthouse, application will be made under the provisions of the Pennsylvania Nonprofit Corporation Law, 1933, May 5, P. L. 289, for the incorporation of a nonprofit corporation to be known as Forest Industries Historical Museum of Sheffield, Inc. The purposes of the proposed corporation are as follows:

(a) To preserve and perpetuate the history of the region surrounding Sheffield, Pennsylvania, with special reference to all that pertains to forests and forest industries which have in the past, and continue in the present, to play an important role in the life and economy of the region.

(b) To promote and encourage historical research, to receive and acquire papers, documents, publications, artifacts and articles of historical significance and value.

(c) To provide a repository for and protection of articles which it may acquire or accept as gifts or loans and which are deemed appropriate to its purposes and functions.

5 LEGAL NOTICES

(d) To maintain and develop historical archives, including photographic records, and

(e) To preserve and record a record of the present against the time when it shall have become history.

(f) To disseminate information and spread knowledge of the region's history as far as possible, using all media of public information, including such publications as the corporation may sponsor.

(g) To cooperate, collaborate and reciprocate with other historical societies and institutions to promote these general purposes.

The corporation does not contemplate pecuniary gain or profit, incidental or otherwise, to its members.

The Articles of Incorporation have been filed and may be examined at the office of the Prothonotary of Warren County.

Barnes Area News

Recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Bertha Holden have been Mr. and Mrs. George Barro of Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Meddock of Clarendon and Everett Meddock of Nokomic, Florida.

Mrs. Vera Schuler with Charles, Greg and Sheila Schuler were in Hershey, Pa. for several days.

Master Daniel McDonald, son of Mrs. Christine McDonald is a surgical patient in Warren General Hospital.

Nine deer, all bucks, were reported seen in the yard of

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hulings. The Neal family reunion was held at the home of Harry Neal, with 22 relatives present. A picnic dinner was served on the lawn. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Neal and family and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Neal and family of Jamestown; Mrs. Maude Pipton of Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neal, Sheffield. Three grandchildren also attended.

Cards received by relatives here from Mrs. Raymond Hahn said she and her husband with their grandson, Greg Arron, as driver, expect to leave Colorado Springs, Colo., on the 24th for their home here. Mr. Hahn was hospitalized for several months in Colorado Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Leseman have been guests of their parents in Greensburg, Pa. for several days.

All or None

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Defense Ministry has ruled that West German soldiers may take off their caps or helmets while riding in closed vehicles but only if all the other occupants do the same. The new regulation is being printed to take effect by the end of the year.

News of

Registration For Voters Sept. 5

The polling place at Tidioute (borough building) will be open on Tuesday, Sept. 5, from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. for a special voter registration.

At this time new voters may register and changes in address will be processed.

4-H News

Eight members of the Limestone Lads and Lassies 4-H Club entered exhibits at the 4-H Roundup held Tuesday, August 15 at the Youngsville-Warren County Fair and all came home with blue ribbons for their efforts.

The winners in the vegetable unit were: Jeffrey Dasher and James Ziegler. The winners in the flower unit were: Rebecca Ziegler, Cindy Dasher, Kathy Downey, Teresa Stover, Linda and Barbara Shavley.

The blue ribbons were won on the basis of the scores received for their project, management, exhibit and record book. To qualify for a blue ribbon their score had to be between 90 and 100 points.

The club returned to the fair grounds Wednesday to enjoy the rides and exhibits.

The next meeting will be on Monday, August 28, at the Bruce Ziegler home at 6:30 p.m. The topic will be the "Care of Cut Flowers".

Cindy Dasher news reporter

Garden Tours For Aug. Meet

Members of the Tidioute Garden Club will enjoy a progressive dinner and tour of local gardens for the Tuesday, Aug. 29 meeting.

Members will meet at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Lisle Peters for refreshments and a tour of his garden. The group will then "progress" to the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bush and Mr. and Mrs. George B. King, where garden tours also will be taken.

Hosts for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. George King, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bush, Lisle Peters and Mrs. A. Spates Brady.

America needs your help.

There is a new plan for Americans who want to help their country as they help themselves. Now, when you buy U.S. Savings Bonds through Payroll Savings where you work, or through Bond-a-Month where you bank, you are also entitled to purchase the new higher-paying Freedom Shares. They are available on a one-for-one basis with Savings Bonds in four denominations and are redeemable after one year. Sign up soon

Questions and answers about Freedom Shares.

Q. What are Freedom Shares?
A. They are the new U.S. Savings Notes — a companion product to the Series E Savings Bond

Q. Who may buy Freedom Shares?
A. Any individual who purchases Series E Bonds regularly through a formal plan — either Payroll Savings where he works or Bond-a-Month where he banks.

Q. What is the interest rate on Freedom Shares?
A. 4 7/8% compounded semiannually, when held to maturity of 4 1/2 years. The rate is less if redeemed prior to maturity, and they may not be redeemed for at least one year

Q. Does this same rate now apply to E Bonds?
A. No. E Bonds continue to return an average of 4 1/2% when held to their seven year maturity

Q. What do Freedom Shares cost?
A. They are issued in face amounts of $25, $50, $75, and $100. Purchase prices are $20.25, $40.50, $60.75, and $81.00

Q. Can Freedom Shares be bought by themselves?
A. No. They must be bought in conjunction with E Bonds of the same or larger face amounts
